COL. OTTER GIVES BATTLE TO

POUND MAKER—SEVERE

LOSS ON BOTH SIDES.

A despatch from Saskatchewan landing, via Swift Current, per courier, who arrived on Tuesday from the north, brought news of another battle fought with the Indians of Poundmaker's reserve on Sunday, May 3rd.

A flying column of three hundred men, under Col. Otter, attacked the Indians, six hundred strong, at five o'clock in the morning. The fight lasted till noon. Col. Otter's loss was seven killed and twelve wounded.

The enemy lost fifty killed and wounded.

Col. Otter covered (including the engagement) seventy miles, fought the battle and returned inside of thirty hours. The men behaved magnificently. The following are

THE RUSSIANS AT THE GATES OF

HERAT.

"The Russians at the Gates of Herat" is the title of Mr. Charles Martin's last book, a work which has attracted general interest because of the Russian advance into the west of England and Russia. The accomplished author, so well qualified to deal with the subject, presents his views on the question with great talent and ingenuity,

and from first to last sustains the attention of the reader. In it he traces the successive advances of Russia, points out the policy of her statesmen, and suggests the policy which,

in his opinion, should be adopted by England. He dispels also many popular illusions as to the geography of Central Asia.

For instance, it is often said that the colossal mountain ranges bar the Russian advance to the Indian Ocean. In fact, the

FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1886.

"EARL DUFFY" is expected to resign, was one of the standing cablegrams which was frequently to be seen during the great crisis in the Afghan question. Such an event would, it is hinted, cause a collapse of the Gladstone administration, and possibly of the whole British Constitution. It is needless to say that the polished and popular Viceroy, who enjoys the sweets and emoluments of office just as much as ordinary mortals, had no intention whatever of making such a sacrifice, which would meet factually but his prospects of future promotion. His resignation, while it might prove a temporary embarrassment, would have been promptly accepted. It would be an easy matter to find in England scores of men just as capable as the late Governor-General to undertake the position of Viceroy of India whose duties consist chiefly in implicitly obeying the instructions of the English Cabinet in London.

APPEARANCES seem to indicate that the Dominion is brought face to face with a prolonged Indian war. From all points in the Northwest come reports that the Indians, rendered disaffected by the encroachments of Riel, are restless and only awaiting a favorable opportunity to rise in rebellion. The whole district west of Battleford has been plundered by roving bands, who have either killed the settlers or taken them captive. Col. Otter's advance on Poundmaker's reserve would appear to have been a mistake, for while it is true that his force behaved well and inflicted heavy losses on the Indians, he was under the necessity of retiring to Battleford. The Indians will consider his retreat as an evidence of their victory, and Poundmaker finds himself already reinforced from all the neighboring reserves. Col. Otter is now compelled to await reinforcements at Battleford, as with his present force he is unable to cope with the increased numbers of the enemy.

THERE is now every reason to believe that the dispute between England and Russia will be amicably settled. Russia has promised to check the advance of her troops towards Herat, and consented, under certain stipulations, to refer the boundary question to a commission, while the English affair will be submitted to the arbitration of some European sovereign. Although all danger of war cannot be said to be averted, it is altogether probable that the statement of both countries will arrive at a peaceful solution of the various questions which had almost ended in a gigantic struggle for supremacy. The result of the labors of the boundary commission will be the establishment of a definite frontier, which will be more apt to be respected than the hazy dividing line which has hitherto separated both empires. That both sides have made concessions is evident, from the fact, that Gladstone and DeRiefers have exposed themselves to the impatient fury of the press of London and St. Petersburg. Moderate men of all shades of politics will rejoice, however, that the miseries of war have for the present, at least, been averted. Some predict that the result of the compromise will be the loss of India, but there is little ground for such dismal forebodings. It will be remembered that when Kharoun fell a general Mahomedan rising was predicted, but in a few hours afterwards the Mahomedan Princes of India were loyally offering men and money to aid the Imperial Government in their operations in the Sudan. The people of India, who now enjoy peace and impartial administration of justice as the result of British rule, would hesitate to hazard the vain effort of shaking off the gentle yoke of English Dominion.

TYENDINGA RESERVE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. John McFarlin is building a large barn on the farm of the late Joseph Hill. It is proposed to have the lower church cleaned and repaired some time next week. People may expect some fresh news on the return of the Pastor, Chief Culbertson and Mr. Francis Clause from Kingston; also the people's delegates, Messrs. Chief S. Green, Esq., Chief Solomon Loft and W. J. Hill, who will have had an interview with the Bishop. A debating club was organized on Saturday evening, last night, in the front school. The attendance was small; nevertheless, considerable interest was manifested by those present in the way debating was carried on. This is a good move, and it is to be hoped all our young men will take an interest in it, as it might be the means of making some smart speakers.

DEMORESTVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Herb Butler has been quite ill for a week or so with neuralgia. Miss T. is suffering from erysipelas. Mrs. T. has had a severe attack of neuralgia and has been confined to the house for some time; we are glad to see her smiling face around again. Death has again been in our midst and carried away Mr. Rymond Fox, who was an old land mark, at the age of 75 years. He was buried on Sunday and there was a very large gathering at the funeral. Mrs. John O'Brien, an old lady, while hunting geese in the turn-sheep through the loft and broke her leg. She is doing very well considering her age. We have had a number of postmarkers. Mr. Wm. Baker has now got the post and traps officers moved into his store.

The Presbyterian congregation has got a new minister, Rev. Mr. McKinnon, a young and we understand a very talented man. He will be quite an acquisition to Demorestville society. The Methodist congregation held a Sugar Social on Monday night in the town hall, for the benefit of their minister, Rev. Mr. Palmer. Proceeds about $30.

MELROSE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Rifle Association held their practice, as they expected. Some very good shooting was done, and some very poor shooting. N. Donald, N. Tripp, W. Tripp, and W. Dun can make the highest scores. Probably it would not be advisable to tell who made the lowest scores. At their quarterly business meeting held in the Methodist Church at Melrose, it was decided to divide the circuit, as it was thought there would be less friction if one preacher had charge of each circuit. Outside think it was a sensible plan, as there will not be so many people stay away from church, waiting for their favorite minister's turn. The minister is to reside at Melrose.

Mr. Thomas Jordan is digging for the foundation of the Presbyterian Church to-day (Monday). Mr. Lang, from Belleville, has the contract for laying the brick. The boys around the village are making things lively with the boxing gloves, with the usual result of a casual enlargement of a nasal appendage.

Mr. Munnell is anxiously waiting for the ground to get dry enough for quail picking. A great many people intended to begin sowing this morning, but have put it off on account of the snow. Cheese making was begun in the Melrose factory for the first time to-day.

READ.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Township Council held their regular meeting at Melrose on Tuesday.

The Cheese Factories all commenced operations on Tuesday. Mr. Michael Boddy had a ploughing bee on Saturday when 20 teams were at work. They ploughed 18 acres and sowed and harrowed a 7-acre field. A good showing for one day's work.

Mr. B. Callery, who draws the milk route on the 4th con. for the Melrose Cheese Factory, has one of the new style of platform made by Messrs. Brum & Haight of London. These platforms are strong and commodious capable of holding 23 milk cans, 18 large and 5 small ones.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. James O'Rea of the 7th con. is seriously ill. His son, Mr. Alexander O'Rea of Saginaw was telegraphed for and arrived on Saturday. Squire Meagher of the 5th con. has been making great improvements. The work has been as usual successfully carried out by the contractor Mr. Michael Gaffney.

The question as to "Who killed the dog" is still disturbing Bachelor's Walk, generally a "quiet peaceful neighborhood." It was deemed necessary to hold an inquest of which Squire Patrick the Pathmaster was foreman when a verdict was returned of "justifiable homicide against some person unknown."

Mr. Callery's fine young stallion Young Tippoo Pascar is now before the public. In this issue will be found a notice of this fine young horse.

The weather still continues cold and winter. On Monday and Tuesday we had snow which turned to rain on Tuesday evening. The spring is very late this year and our farmers have hardly yet begun spring work.

A lecture was announced to be delivered under the auspices of the Hastings and Act Executive Committee in Hanley's Hall on the 8th inst. by Dr. Cadieux. The lecturer arrived in the afternoon, but thinking that he would have no audience in consequence of the snowstorm he left for Deseronto.

PICTON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Since my last writing we have had another very sudden death in town. Flora Ross, youngest daughter of Mr. Ross, aged 20, died early Monday morning after a short illness of less than 24 hours. This will be a severe blow to the parents as it is the only fruit of the present union that is now plucked.

Valentine Bannerman, of Bloomfield, died very suddenly on Sunday morning. He asked his wife to get up and build the fire as he was not feeling well and before she had the fire started he passed away apparently not suffering any pain.

There has been a great many deaths in the surrounding country during the last two weeks.

The Sch. Philo Bennett sailed from here with a cargo of rye on Sunday morning for Oswego but owing to the blockade of ice in Oswego harbor she will not get in very soon. The Belle Wilson tried to make Oswego last Saturday and returned to South Bay where she is lying now awaiting word from Oswego when the ice moves. She is lumber laden.

Every morning finds the ground covered with snow and sleet. What a pity Vernon could not have lived to give us warning of what we were to pass through. Vigors only figures out wind storms, it is time he took up other branches of the weather proba, and let the people know what a scientist he is.

Your correspondent was once a pupil of Vigors but he did not teach that branch then.

The town council did not meet last evening owing to the death of Mr. Ross. Mr. Ross being and the business coming before it is of such importance that his presence would be necessary.

The Varus was the first boat to enter our harbor on Saturday. Since then the Quirk & Reinhardt have put in an appearance all looking fresh from their paint. The Alexandria will sail from Montreal on Thursday and will be expected here Saturday on her regular trip.

At a meeting of the shareholders of the Picton Rink Co., last week a proposition of raising for 3 years at $6000 per year, the party voting to put in the floor for roller skating at his expense, was considered and rejected. It is well to keep it in the control of the company and continue the roller skating another winter instead of the modern idea that is having such a craze.

Broom Brigade on the 19th inst.

SHANNONVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Vanlunen, of Battersea, a good practical miller, has leased the grist mill here at $800 a year and taxes, and will enter into possession on the 8th inst. Mr. Sagar, of Mad., the late leasee is here to-day with a view of leasing it again, but is too late.

The sch. Delaware cleared on Saturday from Lazer's storehouse with 11,000 bushels of barley for Oswego. Mr. Lazer is hourly expecting another schooner to load with barley and rye.

The sch. Craveth, Capt. Peacock, was towed out this morning loaded with barley from McCaul's elevator, and the Mary Proctor, from Brighton, was towed in. She is now taking her cargo of barley from the elevator.

We have an old resident in the village by the name of Jan Young—to the major born—who has been subject for some years to what are popularly known as "falling fits." A few days ago she was seized with one of those fits as she was standing by her stove, and fell forward on the stove, and lay there struggling and roaring until consciousness returned, when her face and hands were terribly burned and beyond recognition. As this is not by any means the first time that this has happened to her—though she has never been so terribly burnt upon it, that such a poor helpless creature should not be left to live alone. The responsibility of her untimely death will certainly come back some day on those more immediately concerned, unless she is better cared for.

The fourth quarterly meeting of the Methodist Church, Shannonville Circuit, was held at Melrose on Saturday last. The Rev. James Curtis, President of the Conference, in the Chair. The review of the year gave encouraging evidence of prosperity in every department of church work. A large number have been secured during the year as candidates for membership in the church. All the finances show a steady advancement, except the ministerial stipend, which is considerably in arrears. A simultaneous effort will be made between this and the Conference to meet honorably the obligations. The division of the circuit was carried out with unanimity. The head of the new circuit will be Melrose, and will include Melrose, Lonsdale, Salem and Mount Pleasant. The Shannonville circuit will include St. John's, Bonanza, Spencers and Belleville Road. By united and cheerful efforts these might be made very desirable country circuits. With the aid of the church and parsonage property about free from debt, there is nothing to bar their progress.

The Belleville Hallelujah Band, by special request will give an all-day jubilee service, on Sabbath at the Methodist Church, Lonsdale. Collections to defray expenses.

THE BREAKING UP OF THE ICE AT BELLEVILLE.

(Thursday 16th April, 1886.)

Now o'er the city brightly shines the sun;

Look at the streets, and watch the busy throng!

Surely the cold, bleak winter now is done, And gone the hardships which it belong! But 'tis not so, a murmur gaining strength Is passing through the ever moving mass; Its import in an shout is known at length "The ice!" and people rush to every bank Leading to bridges, or the river's bank. They watch the ice-blocks floating down the stream.

Coming with fearful force to thin the ranks Of houses built on either side. The would-be conquerors.

As if no building now could stop the flow! And here and there amongst the lookers-on: Is heard the word—"The lower bridge must come!"

And members of the force with cautious draw, Try to clear off the crowd, that on it throng.

But here it vain! The ice comes with a crash! But here it stops—it finds the bridge too strong.

And now the water doth in fury lash, And swirl, and with a backward bounding surge.

Quickly it makes a channel of its own, And down a street, both ice and water go; Never before had such a rush to the river. Houses fall down before this awful force, And debris mixed with these huge blocks of ice.

Is carried by the flux, upon its centre: The wreck is crushed ere one could throw the die.

Man's this day have lost their homes, so late.

Others the fruits of toil for many years, Yet for their lives, their thanks are due, To the day.

To him who said He'd wipe away all tears.

Another of those fearful conflagrations occurred in Brooklyn on Tuesday. A factory was destroyed and ten girls lost their lives.
A. J. Raynor, a newsdealer of Buffalo, has been arrested for receiving stolen goods from burglars who have been committing robberies in various parts of Canada.
At Culebra, on the Panama canal, a fracas occurred between Jamaicans and national soldiers. At night the soldiers attacked the Jamaicans while asleep killing 25 and wounding 20.
Earl Dufferin is forwarding large supplies of rifles and ammunition to the Amir of Afghanistan.
The construction of the railway through the Bolen Pass on the way to Quetta is progressing rapidly.
The municipal elections in Madrid resulted in a marked triumph for the coalition of Liberals and Republicans.
Gen. Lumsden has been summoned to London to assist the government in their negotiations with Russia on the disputed boundary question.
Herr Bohn, the leader of the German exploring expedition to Lake Moore, East Africa, was recently killed by natives. A confederate escaped and arrived here.
Several Canadian, boatmen including Colonel Kennedy, have been attacked by small pox since their arrival in London.
Shocks of earthquake were felt in Vienna on Friday, and in several districts of the Alps. Several houses were damaged, and a number of women killed at Kindberg and Styria.
Financial centres in Rome are greatly agitated in consequence of the commission of many serious crimes which have just been discovered. The perpetrators have absconded.
The dispute between China and Russia regarding the frontier in Manchuria has become acute, owing to the non-arrival of the Russian members of the delimitation commission, and the constant postponement of the date of their arrival at the place of meeting.
The Mahdi's men surrounded Sambout and Oso, and kept up a heavy fire. No casualties. Another forward movement by the British is expected to-morrow. The Mahdi has dismissed the Emir of Berber from his service.
It is believed that the experiments made at Valencia have established the success of the system of cholera inoculation. The virus inoculation produces tumor on the patient who becomes severely prostrated in about 24 hours, but generally recovers entirely within 48 hours. All the provinces of Spain have sent doctors to Valencia to study the system.
The Fortnightly Review publishes an article by Charles Williams, the southern correspondent of the Chronicle, substantially proving the incompetency of Sir Charles Wilson and the virtual manslaughter of Gordon by his negligence. Williams shows that Wilson's orders were to proceed at once from Metemneh to Khartoum, but that he delayed his departure unnecessarily four days. Williams' article is tantamount to allegations of cowardice. The matter will be brought up in Parliament with probability of a court martial. Lord Charles Berkeford and the Naval Brigade will testify.

The "constantly tired-out" feeling so often experienced in the result of impoverished blood, and consequent enfeebled vitality. Ayer's Sarsaparilla feeds and enriches the blood, increases the appetite, and promotes digestion of the food and the assimilation of its strengthening qualities. The system being thus invigorated, the feeling rapidly changes to a grateful sense of strength and energy.

KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It is also effectual as an alterative that it eradicates from the system all the elements of disease, and the kindred poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it cures and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and rejuvenating the entire system. This great

Regenerative Medicine

Is composed of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Sassafras, the Indigo of Patagonia, and Iron, and other ingredients of great potency, carefully and scientifically compounded. Its formula is generally known to the medical profession, and the best physicians constantly prescribe AYER'S SARSAPARILLA as the

Absolute Cure

For all diseases caused by the vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest practicable degree, far beyond any other preparation for which like effects are claimed, and is therefore the cheapest, as well as the best blood-purifying medicine in the world.

USEFUL HINTS.

UNPOOLED CANDY.—Use the whites of two or more eggs and take of cold water an equal amount. Beat together lightly and add powdered sugar, to make a thick paste, the same as for frosting cake. Drop on buttered paper, in shapes that please the eye, try round forms the size of a quarter of an inch, flatten by placing the half meat of a nut-brush, hickory, or whatever kind you please,—on the top of every drop. Vary the color by the use of coloring, when just as the candy is drying, place the candies in a cool room to dry.

RAIL ROAD YEAST.—Put to soak two yeast cakes, of use a cup each, yeast. Stir together two tablespoonfuls of sugar, two of salt and three of flour. Put a small handful of hops into a pint of water, and when boiling strain to the sugar, salt and flour. Stir so that the flour will not be in lumps and the hop water should be boiling so that the flour will be scalded. Pare 12 medium-sized potatoes and boil whole, pass through the colander, add a cup of boiling water, one of cold and the hop mixture. When cool, add the soaked yeast cakes or yeast and set in a warm—not too hot—place to rise for 24 hours. Stir occasionally. Then turn into a one-gallon jar, cork and keep where it is cool. Use two teaspoonfuls for four loaves of bread. Start the process every morning and in two or three hours you can mix hard.

TO PREVENT PIES BAKING OVER.—Good pie apples, such as Greenings, do not require any water. Two or three tablespoonfuls are enough for power apples later in the season. Sweeten, season, and add a small piece of butter. On the under crust a little larger than the dish, lay the over crust, pinch tight and mark with a fork.

BROILED MACKEREL AND CRAB.—Well-freshened salt mackerel, laid flat, skin side down in real cream or in mock-cream are quickly and easily cooked. Unless the fish has been more than usually freshened, it will salt the cream sufficiently. It needs more, add a little before broiling it up. One pint of cream will broil one ordinary-sized pan or "spider" full,—say three good-sized or four smaller mackerels. Take out the fish carefully, lay on a deep plate or fish platter, pour the remaining cream over it, laying here and there pieces of best butter. (So called "cooking butter" should never be used anywhere, least of all, on fish or meat.) Fresh mackerel is nice, broiled in the same way, only that the cream will need salting before serving.

BAKED FISH WITHOUT DRESSING.—Lay a blue-fish flat in the baking-pan, pouring a half cup of milk over it, as soon as it has begun to cook. Bake it occasionally with cold milk. Enclose it with parer potatoes, after it has been in the oven half-an-hour, and pour a few drops on each potato to keep them from getting too crisp. If you are sufficiently fortunate to have a cup, or even half a cup, of sweet cream use about one half-cup before it is done, the flavor will be greatly improved. Have ready some milk and a spoonful of flour, and make your "sauce" in the pan after taking out the fish and potatoes; the fish-jules will flavor the gravy pleasantly. Remember always the general rule in serving just before serving, particularly in all cases of milk. Seasoning of thyme, marjoram, summer savory, sage or parsley can be added to all recipes at the will of the cook.

SALT COD-FISH.—Pare your potatoes, and lay the cod-fish, nicely skinned, on top of them. Boil and serve with a simple gravy of flour and water well cooked, seasoned, and heavily buttered. For breakfast "pick up" nicely what is left, and, in the morning, heat over in just water enough to moisten it, butter and pepper it well, and spread like sandwiches on thin slices of bread made into egg-toast. Moisture your slices of bread in cold water then dip in beaten eggs and milk and lay on a nicely-browned frying-pan over a quick fire; turn bread quickly, spread on your fish and serve hot.

Scotch and Irish Recruits.

Albeit an Englishman, I view the Scotch as best material for a soldier, provided he comes from the Highlands, and the gamekeeper subordinate par excellence. Such birds cannot be caught readily now. Yet some five-and-thirty years back they were, with written characters often, and were taken in the regiment under a sense of mutual obligation. What were their exceptional qualifications? Well, first, physique and capacity for endurance. The recruit had learned to "rough" it in all weather, and frugally, on small means and poor food. Then he was educated, ergo intelligent and a reasoning being. Finally he was patient and persevering. Keep this man from drink, and self-respect and self-interest combined, the probability is that he would avoid pitfalls such as inhabitants of the lower stratum of the people are prone to fall into. Thus Scotland furnishes a large quota of non-commissioned officers, probably three-fourths of those who subsequently rise to commissioned rank. The Lowlander (i. e. a Paisley and Glasgow operative) is much on a par with his compeer from manufacturing towns in England. And both are inferior in physique and morale to the countryman. The English farm laborer I would place over the Scot in soldierly qualifications. He has—as much from antecedent life, it may be, as from biological type—less bottom, endurance, and certainly less self-dependence in emergency. The Northern man has one "pull" over both other nationalities—a strong head. He can stand much drink, carries caution, too, in his very cups, and thus, as Sergeant-Majors well know, gains and retains good conduct badges. National temperaments, it is doubtless, much concerned in the proportion of army crime, irrespective of individual propensity. The Irishman will become a raging lunatic for the time being; the Scot "quietly" querulous and self-controlled.

A RUSE DOG.

One summer afternoon a group of children were playing at the end of the pier which projects into Lake Ontario, near Kingston. The proverbial black-and-white ward step off from the pier into the water. None of his companions could save him and their cries had brought no one from the shore, when just as he was sinking for the third time, a superb Newfoundland dog rushed down the pier into the water, and pulled the boy out. That was the end of the ruse. The child who the children were playing at the end of the pier, when the canine hero of the day before came trotting down to them with the most friendly wag and nod. There he stood, waiting for the children to supply him with delicacies, the children only stroked and patted him. The dog, however, had not come out of pure sociability.

At the next afternoon, the same group of children were playing at the same place, when the canine hero of the day before came trotting down to them with the most friendly wag and nod. There he stood, waiting for the children to supply him with delicacies, the children only stroked and patted him. The dog, however, had not come out of pure sociability. The Fishing Industry.

Advice from St. John's indicate that the salt fishery this year has been unusually successful. Many steamers returned to port laden. The Newfoundland fleet have been extraordinarily lucky, but the risk to human life has been criminal. The steamer Ranger, with over 250 men on board, returned to St. John's with the largest catch for her tonnage ever taken into any port in the world. Thousands of people watched the entrance of the vessel into the harbor. She had a heavy list to port and was compelled to steam slowly, and had to creep home inch by inch. Fortunately, the sea was calm all the way. Her deck, covered to the top of the rails with 7,000 seals, was a novel sight never before seen in St. John's. The largest boat contained 750 and 250 were stowed under the bunks in which the men slept. Eight puncheons were filled with oil, and the rest was stowed in the hold. Two hundred and fifty seals were killed on the voyage, and being short of coal, shark-livers were used as fuel for three days. Had this ship encountered the slightest rough weather she must have foundered, and all on board would have been lost, as the cargo was so high that the head-quarters of the Dominion fleet which will after July 1 patrol the Canadian coast and seize all the American vessels found within a three-mile limit of the coast into harbors for salt or supplies. Canada and Newfoundland will likely act in conjunction in this matter. The fleet will comprise fast schooners and steamers armed with one or three light guns and all commissioned as British cruisers. All American vessels captured in Dominion waters will be brought to Halifax and sold as prize.

Nora's Balance.

Last summer, during the excitement owing to bank failures, I was watching the anxious crowd besieging the doors of a bank that was supposed to be in danger, when I overheard the following colloquy between an Irish woman and her husband: "Nora, draw yer money out." "An' shure, Patrick, I won't." "But, Nora, you must draw it out." "Faith an' I won't draw my money out at all." "Nora, an' don't ye see know they'll lose yer money for ye if ye don't draw it out?" "An' shure, Patrick ain't they better able to lose it than we are?" Patrick was evidently overpowered with this astonishing and unanswerable argument, and they both left the scene apparently satisfied. Fortunately the bank survived the pressure, and its ability to lose Nora's balance was not practically tested.

A Trial of Iron-Clads.

If the reports of the naval preparations Russia is making are true it is possible that, in the event of war between that country and England, an opportunity will be afforded, for the first time, of testing the merits of modern iron-clads. Hitherto these monuments of naval architecture have been built upon purely theoretical grounds. It is impossible to say what would be the result of a conflict between two fleets of iron-clads. Such a trial might prove that they were defective in wholly unexpected particulars, and that all of the great navies of the world needed to be rebuilt as thoroughly as they have been since the battle between the Merrimack and Monitor. The only trial that has been put upon the modern iron-clad is in the contests that took place between vessels of this type during the war between Chile and Peru, and a number of reasons, naval experts have not considered these contests as test cases.

In the coal formations of the world, 1,478 species of the fossil flora have been described.

NEWSPAPERS.

Cotton mills in Texas. From Arabic and from a new letter in France, etc.

Miss Isabella Otter has been appointed vaccination officer at Fordingbridge, England.

Texas will soon abound with cotton mills, says a San Antonio paper, which is preparing for the erection of a mill at Riverside at a cost of $30,000.

The famous old English watering place of Bath has not been so crowded since the days of Anne Queen, fashionable resorters having again discovered the virtues of its waters.

At Castle Howard, Lord Carlisle's seat in Yorkshire, there is a guest house in which a man's room is very good living, is provided each month for four hard-working women from large towns.

A small piece of what looked to him like glass was picked up in Macon, Ga., recently by a citizen of that place who was pronounced a diamond, and worth from $800 to $1,000.

The Journal of the present figures to show that the rate of progress in the form of pressure as a centre of medical instruction. In 1876 the number of students was 1,927, and in 1884 had increased to 4,547.

The office of the London Times has been altered and rebuilt that it is unrecognizable by anyone who saw it a few years ago. The circulation is not thought to be now over 50,000, but the advertisement sheet has declined.

Last year's income of the Girard estate in Philadelphia was $950,000. Its real estate alone is valued at $7,346,000, besides the college buildings and grounds. The colleges of the state produce 1,400,000 tons of coal during the year.

The loss of cattle in south-west Florida the past winter is reported greater than in any previous year, one stock raiser estimating his loss at 2,000 head. Pneumonia, a Georgia paper says, seems to have been the disease that played such havoc.

Gum arabic is rapidly rising in price. The average annual consumption is 9,000,000 pounds; the amount in market is only 4,000,000 pounds, and even if the stock on hand were to be over in a few months, no part of the new crop could be received in Alexandria until next December.

The question of again opening the New Orleans Exposition on Nov. 1 is being seriously considered. The expense that would be entailed during the five months intervening between the closing and reopening of the building, in the way of insurance, repair, and police, it is believed that the enterprise may be made to pay.

At a wedding in Cork lately the bride's youngest brother, just out of a jacket, rose after the breakfast and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I have to propose a toast, which must be of great standing. The guests rose accordingly. "Now," said young hopeful, "if you will kindly keep on your legs for a few minutes I will find out who has been sitting on my new coat."

The white brick now made in France from the immense accumulations of waste sand at glass factories is likely to prove a valuable industry. The process of production consists in subjecting the sand to immense hydraulic pressure and then baking in furnaces at a high temperature, so as to produce blocks of various forms and dimensions, of a uniform white color, and which are not affected by the heaviest frost or by the sun or rain.

The French Medicals is greatly pleased with a gigantic skeleton of the meridian elephant in the new gallery of paleontology in the Paris Museum. It is said to be the largest skeleton of the kind ever discovered, and the fossil is exceptionally interesting in many ways. But the intense satisfaction of the French editor seems to arise chiefly from the fact that the bones are no longer empty, the British Museum's collection of skeletons, "which," says the writer, "is a great point indeed."

The Family Doctor is the latest specimen of English medical literature, and is published weekly at a penny a copy. Such a journal might do great harm if the public could comprehend it, but anxious mothers and fathers will not be likely to look up such phrases as "diffuse inflammation," "divergent strabismus," &c., which occur in it. It has an amusing way of telling us what to do in emergency, e. g.: "When there is any difficulty in judging 'twixt arteritis and 'neuritis,' there may be both. Treat accordingly."

The claimant to the Lovat Scottish peerage, a gentleman of high respectability, alleges that his ancestor, the Earl of Angus, was the Welsh minor of Lords Anglesey and Powers (who befriended him) to avoid punishment for having, in a fit of rage, killed a piper. The Lovat is now a peerage, and the pay roll is said to correspond exactly with that of the missing heir. Meantime the existing Lord Lovat has an English peerage conferred on his factor, and retaining it to the Scotch peerage can prefer no claim.

The Organ for Oshelund gives an account of some experiments lately made at St. Petersburg with pyroelectricity, the celebrated Russian chemist, thinks will supersede kerosene. It is said to be wholly free from danger of fire, and burns with a very bright light, and gives off no smoke or vapor, while it is a great saving of space. The Bakud distillation of petroleum makes it cost less than kerosene.

Indian Warriors.

The Indians with Iron Horse came directly to head-quarters, and asked for General's room entered. There was time while they were preparing, to send for the chiefs, and the chiefs were tucked away on the lounge with instructions not to move or whisper, for my husband treated these Indians with as much condescension as the Indians could crowd heads. The Indians turned a surprised, rather scornful glance into the "ladies' gallery," for their women are always kept in the back of the room, and they did not hesitate to criticize their toilets. They were gorgeous in full dress. Iron Horse wore an elaborately beaded and painted buckskin dress, with masses of solid embroidery of porcupine quills. The sleeves and shoulders were ornamented with a fringe of scalp locks. Some of the hair we saw with scalp locks, from which it had been taken, for all the Indian locks I have ever seen were straight and black.

The chief wore on his shoulders a sort of cape, trimmed with a fringe of snowy ermine. His leggings were a mass of solid ermine, and he wore a crown, though for it is their custom to leave the top of the head uncovered. Three eagle feathers that denote the number of warriors killed, were fastened in that they stood erect. There were several perforations in each ear from which depended bead earrings. He had armlets of burnished brass; thrown round arm a beaded belt, like the rest of the pipes had the wooden stem inlaid with silver, and was embellished with the broadest feathers of brilliantly plumaged birds. The tobacco bag, about two feet long, had an inch wide of red not decorated. The costume was simply superb.

The Key of India.

The state of Herat as a fortress is abominable. There is more dirt and decay in and about it, just because it is big, than in any other place. It is a key to the Panjdeh. But in the opinion of the few Englishmen who have visited Herat in the course of the present century, it might have made capable of a stout resistance to European besiegers. It has never yet been besieged by a European army, though European officers have assisted in its defence and its capture. Russian officers have assisted against an Englishman—the brave Edward Pottinger—in 1837. They accompanied the Persian army of 35,000 men, which besieged Herat at that period, and which, after four months, failed to give up the attempt. The Persians pounded the town with fifty pieces of artillery. The success of the resistance was entirely owing to the genius and the personal influence of the British officer. But, after there is another siege of Herat, the assailants will be much more formidable than the warriors of the "King of Kings," Mahomed Shah, were in 1837. TOWN AND COUNTRY.

CHILDREN'S Arbor Day.

What about that Home Guard. Now for the first session of the season. All aboard for Massachusetts.

The Committee of the Synod of Ontario have been in session this week at Kingston. Read time table of the popular steamer "Hero" in another column.

MR. LATEY, Inspector of Licenses, spent Monday and Tuesday in town on official business.

AN ORDER for 1100 pair of sash and 600 doors is now being filled at the Factory for Mr. G. A. Priest, of Port Arthur.

The annual meeting of the N. T. & Q. Ry. Company will be held to-day at the Company's offices in Niagara.

MR. BARTLE SHAWHEAD intends proceeding at once with the erection of a neat cottage on Powles' Hill in the west end.

In the list of passengers at the recent examinations at Queen's College we observe the name of Mr. W. C. B. Rathbun, of Deseronto, who passed in the class of Medical Botany.

THE Board of License Commissioners for East Hastings met in the town hall on Monday and Tuesday. They issued 32 tavern and two shop licenses for the current year.

MR. JAMES GAULT, has put a first class baggage cart on the route this year. It will only follow this up with a good hack meeting all boats and trains it would be a great boon to the travelling public.

According to the provisions of the new school law, the summer holidays will begin on the first Monday in July and extend until the third Monday of August.

Our thanks are due to R. Matheson Esq., Superintendent of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, for the Annual Report of that establishment.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Methodist Church, Deseronto, will be held on Sabbath morning next. The Love Feast will commence at 9:30, a. m. and public preaching at 10:45, a. m.

The last issue of the W. M. contains a piece of poetry by Mr. David McClellan who also favors THE TRIBUNE with a sketch with a selection on the same theme, the Flood at Belleville.

The lantern in the light house was lit on Friday evening for the first time this season, and its friendly rays were directed to fill the tempest tossed mariner as he navigates the stormy waters of the Bay of Quinte.

AT THE school meeting held yesterday, Mr. Richard Rayburn was elected to fill the vacancy in the School Board caused by the removal of Mr. Robert Conley to another part of the Province.

The various steamers and vessels on the bay have taken a foremost of the Turkey and have commenced the season by making a generous display of bunting. This week's trial will be continued during the season.

Mr. Edward Welch, of Marysville, has rented the chert factory on the Boundary, south of the gravel road, from David Black for 15 years. Mr. Metcalf will be chert-maker this season.

THE Oldfellows here are informed that their brother, Adj. Ponton, is with the Midland fleet on the Stmr Northcote. He has been authorized by the Government of war and peace, but they are glad to learn that he is now better and anxious to meet the enemy.

WE HAVE been encouraged by kind and prompt payments and renewals of subscriptions, but would ask some who have not remembered the matter to attend to it as soon as possible. It means little generally to the subscriber at what time the annual sum is paid. It means far more to the newspaper to which several hundred dollars would be of great value.

IT WOULD be well for farmers and municipal officers to take a note of the fact that a recent order-in-council imposes a penalty of $200 for removing an infected sheep from any farm-yard or building, unless by authority of the Minister of Agriculture. Diseased sheep must be slaughtered by the corporation and the owner compensated.

THE Deseronto Cricket Club has received a challenge from the Pictou Cricketers to play a friendly game on the 25th inst. The members of our local club should immediately commence practice if they expect to make anything like a stand before the veterans of Pictou. There has been some difficulty in getting a plot of ground for a game this year, which places the club at a disadvantage.

THE Methodist Church was filled to the doors on Sabbath last both morning and evening. At the evening service about seventy persons were received into full membership with the church, having passed a probation of three months. Nearly all those who were received on trial as the result of the revival held by Rev. Mr. Croxley the pastor, in January, have remained true to their profession.

The members of the Ladies Missionary Society of the Church of the Islesmen intend holding a Martha Washington Party in the School Room next Friday evening, the 10th inst. There will be an excellent programme of amusements, including readings, addresses and music, &c. The feature of the evening will be a sumptuous repast served in New England style by a bevy of young ladies dressed in the costumes of revolutionary times.

The venerable George and Martha will preside. All with pleasure, including the above mentioned repast, can be enjoyed for the ridiculously small sum of 20 cents. Please remember the date.

POULTRY stateli and handsomely carved hitching posts are being placed in front of the Big Store. It is all very well for Managers and Riches to put on style but the removal of the two venerable landmarks which have so long done duty will touch a tender chord in the breast of many of its customers.

THE housewives were covered the other morning in all directions with earthworms, and even Cowper's humanitarian could hardly put down his foot without crushing some of the reptiles. Where did they come from was generally asked. The popular theory is that they came down in one of the showers during the previous night.

THE Annual Sports Meeting of Canadian Canoeists will be held at Deseronto on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th days of June. Representatives of several clubs have accepted the invitation and the Canoe Club here has a good attendance is expected. The races and evolutions of the fleet are always very interesting and attractive. We learn that the local club intend holding their first sailing races on the 23rd inst.

IT is said that when the wind blows long in a certain direction in La Plata and other parts of South America, suicides prevail and murders and riots become quite common. Would it not be charitable to assume that the wretched weather prevailing this spring due to the cause of the Indian and half-breed rebellion against constituted authority. The dismal weather of the past week or two has put every man into a fit of the blues.

THE spring is backward and lumbermen and farmers are all grumbling. Monday and Tuesday mornings found the snow coming down wildly in huge flakes which in a few days may be blowing from the east have been cold and rheumatic. On Wednesday night we had a heavy gale and yesterday was showery.

THERE is quite a commotion in town at present over that great triumph of Canadian art, "Picturesque Canada." Several parties who signed for the work refused to take it when they learned that it was to extend to such a series of numbers. The agent is now delivering the whole thirty-six numbers and lively scenes are being enacted in all directions, as subscribers hurl their stones into the back yards and across the streets and shake their fists wildly at the imperturbable book agent. It was thought for a time that the broom brigade would have to be called out and the book set on fire in order to prevent bloodshed. We have no doubt that citizens have been victimized, but they will find we fear, that the agent is fortified behind some anti-diluvian clause on the statute book, and so we advise them to settle up before the coats of assault are added to the present bill.

AN EXCHANGE says that there are few persons, comparatively speaking, who are inclined to believe that soap suds thrown about here, there and everywhere, could do any injury; yet we are assured on the most positive terms that there is probably nothing but a mass of disease and misery. This being the case, how careful every woman should be to the disposal of the dirty water when the labour of washing day is completed.

Instead of pouring it out to run over a large surface or let it stagnate, its healthful disposal may be better performed by giving it a New England style. Every known remedy for the prevention of disease should be respected when much inconvenience and discomfort thereby can be avoided and others should be put down in the list.

THE steamer Hero arrived in port on Tuesday evening on the first trip of the season, having a large cargo of freight for various points on the bay. Capt. Nicholson, officers and crew were duly welcomed on their arrival. The Hero has been thoroughly overhauled during the winter, having been repaired and refitted on the outside and repainted inside. Her saloon presents an elegant appearance, new carpets having been laid down and the chandeliers and rollers replaced with new. In the lower panels of the saloon there are French plate glass mirrors, and over the top panels are land-scapings by noted artists. The studding saloon has received new glassware and crockery. The management are evidently determined to make it one of the most popular of this time steamer.

From his new home into the orange groves of Southern California, and to the Editor, formerly of this office sends us a copy of the Riviera Press and Horticulturalist.

From that journal we learn that the Riviera took three gold medals at the Niverville Exposition for the best collection of oranges from any part of the World, from any part of the United States, and from any part of California, respectively, and also took the silver medal for the best collection of lemons from any part of the World. This places that district in the first position as a fruit producing country. If some generous Riviera owner would only give a box, freight paid, to THE TRIBUNE office, it could speak more positively of their quality.

The Pembroke Standard states that Mr. Chas. Baker, after a few days' absence, and proceeding to Ottawa, joined the North-West Mounted Police, and with number of other men, was sent to the Fort of Mr. Baker's father, the Rev. E. H. M. Baker, now at Deseronto, who is the first Church of England clergyman settled at Pembroke with the whole country as a Parish.

Baker's grandfather, long a resident of old Bytown, was the well known Captain Baker of the North-West Mounted Police, and postmaster in Bytown. He was succeeded by his son, George Baker. We feel sure that Mr. Baker will prove himself worthy of his sire and forefathers, and in conjunction with the host of Pembroke friends we wish him God-speed and rapid promotion. An Irving Esq., Registrar of Bytown, in a letter to Rev. R. W. Baker, expresses his sympathy with him and Mr. Baker at being thus separated from their boy, but states that it could not be prevented, as Chas. Baker was determined to go. He thinks his parents may well be proud of a son who so willingly takes up arms in the hour of his country's need.

THE St. John's states that Chas. Baker, in whose company he served as a volunteer, feels proud of Chas. Baker and is certain to give good account of himself wherever he may be. We may state that the young man passed here on the G. T. R. last week in charge of a detachment of men, and arrived safely in Winnipeg by way of Chicago after a rapid and pleasant journey.

NAVIGATION NOTES.

The sch. Ida Walker, Capt. Jas. Savage, commander, arrived from Toronto on Monday. She was neatly painted and commanded by Mr. J. J. Walker, a competent and experienced skipper.

The sch. Pilot, owned by Messrs. Robt. Gault and Frank Hamilton, arrived in port on Saturday. She will be engaged this season in carrying lumber &c. from this point.

The sch. Annandale, Capt. McMaster, sailed to port with flying colors on her first trip to-day.

The stmr. Urtica, which has been chartered by the Rathbun Company for the season, was towed down from Trenton last Saturday. She is being towed by the stmr. Ontario, and was fitted up for the summer's work. The tried and popular officer, Capt. Jos. Belouar, has arrived in port and will take command again this season.

The stmr. Resolute, Capt. Gowan, arrived in port yesterday on her first trip from Kingston.

Stokes hoisted the storm drum yesterday for the first time. Mariners have not yet put on their sea legs until they find themselves exposed to a first class storm. Wiggins is decidedly unimpaired.

The sch. Iron ran aground near Belleville on Tuesday.

The sch. Sir John will leave Kingston in a few days with the dredge Ontario for Shawanaga.

Evans and his crew are as busy as sailors hurrying on their naval operations.

Capt. Munson is in town attending to the repairs on the sch. Ontario, which are being thoroughly overhauled at the shipyard.

The tug Boar strung the boom at the mouth of the Maitland Wednesday.

All the steamers are now running on their respective routes and the port assumes a lively appearance in consequence.

HAIR RENEWER

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitations, but none have so fully met all the requirements needed for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. It is a hair restorer, and a healthy growth in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfillment of its promises.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction.

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dizziness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are so transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes it use as a matter of economy.

THE UNCEASING MELODY.

Like some pink shell, that will not cease
My heart sings on, with out release
This anthem to be free
Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace
Whose mind is stayed on Thee.

The music of the melody
Has thine own melody,
A soul-enlivening harmony;
It elevates and cheers,
And, like the voice of Deity,
It dispels all fears.

Beyond the round of earthly strife,
Beyond the power and might,
Beyond the world with discord rife,
It lifts the soul on high.

To find a calm and restful life,
By faith in Christ brought nigh,
There perfect peace surrounds the soul
Whose trust on God is stayed,
While pressing onward to the goal.

It hears all unexpressed
The deep notes of the music roll
Through sunlight and through shade.
And this is why, without release,
My heart sings full and free
The anthem that will never cease
Through all Eternity;
Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace
Whose mind is stayed on Thee.

Mere having been secured by the Russian troops did not rest the Russian with such a splendid acquisition. Some time previous Gen. Petrushevich conceived the idea of bulging back the frontier between Turkestan and Afghanistan at the hills at the rear of Peshawar, less than one hundred miles from Herat, thus making a wedge, as it were, between Persian and Afghan territory.
His proposal was soon adopted by his government, and in pursuance of that policy Gen. Konaroff, shortly after the surrender of Merv, pushed his army, 202 miles or five marches distant from Herat, Sarakhs like Merv has been dubbed by military men the key of Herat. To a force advancing from India to Herat, Merv is the key; to a force advancing from the Caspian the key is Sarakhs. The two points are about 80 miles apart.
Military men consider these two places the points where troops could concentrate and test before making their final advance upon the Key of India. These events caused great displeasure in England and negotiation between the two governments resulted in the appointment of a commission to lay down a frontier line between the two countries.
Without waiting for the English and Russian frontier commission to arrive upon the spot, Gen. Konaroff had occupied Peshawar, on the Hari Rud, and Alkhan had been advancing up the Hari Rud.
When Sir Peter Lumsden arrived at Alkhan he found that Gen. Zelenoi the Russian commander had failed to put in an appearance.
His government kept him back by various pretexts, the Russians troops having pushed on to carry Peshawar by a route of the Hari Rud, and Alkhan had been advancing up the Hari Rud.

Let us sum up all Mr. Marvin's arguments in one paragraph. England, he states is most decidedly in the right in the present dispute, and Russia most decidedly in the wrong. It is better that we should fight now, when she has only 10,000 troops in the Transcasian region, and has not thoroughly established herself in the Herat district, than give in now, and have to fight her next year, or the year after,
when she has seized the whole of the campground, and concentrated 100,000 troops upon it to drive us out of India.

SUSPICION.

The safest and shortest way to ruin a character is by creating a suspicion. "Suspicious in Bacon's words, 'are like larks among larks, they ever fly by twilight.'"
If your neighbor in business or social life is the object of your dislike, let it be carefully whispered that his affairs are not quite as safely managed as they might be, or of his little, a little, a little, a little, a little, a little, surely as the touch of an infected hand,
blacken his beauty and leave her helpless.
Who does not know the power of such a situation? Who does not meet every day the victims of these unseen wrongs? But it is not necessary for this style of slander to use articulate words at all; the most inarticulate word language is best for its ends. A whisper dropped carelessly in some corner among the comfortable—a look, a shrug of the shoulder, a snarl, a laugh may serve the purpose. There is not a sadder feature of human nature than the readiness with which men accept such insinuations and the rarity with which they have the manhood to repel them. Rumour with most minds is positive evidence, and they will say with a known air, 'There must be some fire in it, such smoke.'

The Rebellion in the NOR' WEST.

On Friday, the 8th inst, Gen. Middleton's brigade advanced and reached the vicinity of the rebel works late in the afternoon.
Early four miles from the rebel works continued and when about four miles from Hatch's the whistle of the Star, Northcote was heard that vessel having been ordered to proceed down the river and engage the rebels as she floated down stream. She was evidently exposed to a heavy fire. Middleton pushed on his guns and galling and opened fire on several of the rebel works from which the rebels ran. A number of priests and sisters of charity who had taken refuge in the church came out and were received by the general. While the battery was shelling the rebels, suddenly a number rose from a ravine right in front and firing rapidly toward the rebels. The guns but Capt. Howard with great bravery ran forward his galling and moved down the rebels who were compelled to retire to the bush from which they kept up a brisk fire. Howard fortunately escaped without a scratch. The rebels then kept up a hot fire from the rifle pits while the volunteers were in a heavy fire which must have caused much less among the rebels. At one time the enemy raised forward shouting and cheering as if they had surrounded our men but a few shells from the Winnipeg Field Battery soon checked their advance.
Shortly after this an endeavour to stop a party of the rebels our volunteers came under heavy fire and gunner Phillip was killed. Several other volunteers were wounded. The Star, Northcote had in the Northcote had in the morning gone down river running the gauntlet of a heavy fire, her smoke-stack being shot away. A heavy fire continued all day long. The rebels encamped for the night in a sort of zareba, exposed to frequent volleys from the rebels during the night, during which private Morrison was killed. The rebels continued the rebels sticking closely to their trenches and Middleton employing the same tactics. It became evident that the enemy's ammunition was running short as at times their fire almost ceased.

In this manner the fight continued until Tuesday when the forces began to make a renewed effort to force a passage. It was evident that Gen. Middleton had determined on a new line of action. The artillery were ordered to shell the enemy vigorously. The rebels replied with great energy. About noon Riel sent a note to Middleton telling him he would number the prisoners unless the general ceased firing on the half-breed women and children. The general replied that if he would point out where they were he would not do so. Riel in reply thanked him for his courteous answer, but that he would carry out his threat anyway. In the meantime the artillery fire grew hotter, the rebels began to waver, and general Middleton ordered a general advance. The volunteers with fixed bayonets made a rush and drove the rebels from the rifle pits, in the face of a heavy fire. The rebels retreated to the houses but were followed by the volunteers, who behaved magnificently. The rebels were soon cleared out of the village and forced to the river where they fought under the river bank. All the prisoners were fortunately rescued from a cellar where they had been kept for safe keeping. Riel unfortunately escaped, crossed the river and it is supposed that he will now proceed with his followers to join Poundmaker and Big Bear. The Canadian losses during the four days fighting are 9 killed and 30 wounded. This is much less than could have been expected under the circumstances.

AMERICAN ENTERPRISE.

No invention of the nineteenth century has worked a greater revolution in household economy or comfort than the sewing machine. It has not only saved the world from the extreme, and it is now the first production of the modern American skill and ingenuity to bring forth a machine of any practical value.

In order to appreciate the great advancement made in the art of sewing, it is only necessary to compare one of the machines built during the infancy of the invention with one of the latest improved "Light-Running New Home."

All the really good points contained in other machines have been utilized in its construction. The most perfect movements and devices have also been added, the result of which is a machine as nearly perfect as it is possible to make one.

For simplicity, durability, ease of management and capacity for work, the "Light-Running New Home" has no rival, and the happy result of its use is that it is the best or she has the very best of the world affords.

SOME OF THE CYNICAL SAYINGS OF THE LATE LORD DUNELM.

"Cocottes give their blossoms to their lovers and their thorns to their husbands."
"Why do the Germans make so much masculine? Surely we are justified in regarding her as feminine, since she is essentially a woman."
"It is recorded that God said, 'Let us make man in our image, after our likeness.' It would perhaps have been inpolitic in Moses to have more directly woman was made in a very different mould.
The conclusion, however, is obvious."
"A lady without a husband seems to me to resemble a bait without any hook in it."

"I believe there are some women who wear a veil simply lest they should be mistaken for men."
"It is quite possible for a man to respect
a woman so much that he will despise himself."

"Man in paradise must have slept very peacefully—until he had the misfortune to lose his life."
"Like a fire, it is liable to be extinguished by overmuch stirring."
"Man sometimes calls woman a goddess, but he does not love her if she were one."
This fact, doubtless, accounts for the persecution which was shown by the sons of God for the daughters of men in the anti-diploian period. The daughters of God must have been a little too cheerful."

"A man will return rather to her who has deceived him than to her whom he has deceived."
"It is well to remember that a woman's eyes and ears are not all at the same side of the head."

"If woman were by nature what she tries to make herself by art she would be dreadfully discontented."

ABOUT MARKETING.

It is surprising, when one thinks of it, how few persons there are who have proper knowledge about marketing, especially in choosing meats. Even women who are so generally advised housekeepers are woefully deficient in this important branch of domestic economy.
Meats of poor quality are not nutritious, and it is cheaper in the end to pay more for better meat. Great waste in this respect could be easily avoided if only a little time and trouble were followed by the purchase and visible signs of prime and nutritive beef.
House-keepers who really possess this knowledge should impart it to their children. In this country at least, it is the duty of the husband to provide for his family, and in a great many cases, if he depends upon the butcher to choose for him, instead of being himself the judge of the quality of the meat, he is bound to pay more for the penalty of his ignorance by being put off with inferior meat. By way of suggestion on this subject, we give a few hints as to what should be kept in view in making a choice at the butcher's shop.

Good beef, when fresh, has a fine grain and is of a vermilion color, with a slight tinge of purple on cut surface. It is firm, but tender to the touch, and is so elastic that no mark is left after pressure of the finger.
The fat is yellowish white, like fresh butter, and firm. Sometimes the fat is so yellow as to be almost black, but it must have no flavor of rancid. The surface must be quite dry when cut, scarcely moistening the finger. A little buttery or soapy taste is not objectionable if the meat is so fresh, but if it is not so fresh, the resistance will be uniform if it is fresh, but if some parts are softer

The warms of flour and the consequent fermentation of the moisture add greatly to its durability.

A Southron paper says that five fingers of a negro woman's right hand are the best cotton pickers known yet.

Dr. A. A. French and Dr. J. J. Harris are of the opinion that "gas engine" will be the motive power of the vessel of the future.

In India cats are sometimes attacked by cholera, according to a French authority, and may communicate the disease to man.

A new theory of the causation of volcanic eruptions attributes them to the formation of a nucleus of molten matter by atmospheric pressure.

Geologists assert that if the continents and the bottom of the ocean were graded to a uniform level, the whole world would be under water to a mile deep.

Dr. Salter, in the British Medical Journal and Surgical Journal, recommends beef tenn, made very hot with red pepper, for deslating tremens. A London surgeon suggested that about 150 cases successfully cured by this remedy.

It is said that the rate of the filtration of the water supplied by the various water companies to London does not in any case exceed 64 gal one per square yard of filter bed in twenty-four hours.

Professor Fisher, of Munlo, has succeeded in obtaining from distilled coal a white crystalline substance, which, as far as respects its action on the system, is exactly like the white crystalline body which stimulates with the stomach more easily than quinine does.

It is not generally known that nutmegs are a powerful physical stimulant. In the American Journal of Pharmacy is written the case of a lady who nearly died from eating a nutmeg and a half, and he points out the fact that the toxic effects of the nutmeg are not confined to the East Indian and United States Dispensaries.

The trial of the dynamite projectile near Washington has aroused curiosity concerning the peculiar effect of this powerful explosive differing from that of gunpowder in that it does not burn but explodes at its quickness of action the armor of a ship or the wall of a fort, in a word, the solid offers less resistance than the miles of atmosphere surrounding it. This has been shown in the case of a projectile which carried 100 pounds of gunpowder on a large surface, then applying a light touch, an explosion would of course follow, and the explosion would take an upward course and the projectile would be hurled into the air. If placed in a like position and exploded the action is so quick that after being fired it would tear up the earth for many yards around.

The birth rate of Russia is the highest in Europe. This, the Medical Record says, is attributed to the paucity of medical men and the habits of the rural population. According to late returns, the average duration of life is only twenty-ahalf years, and the mortality rate is very frightful. More than 60 per cent of infants die before they reach their fifth year, and nearly 2,000,000 perish every year (8,000,000 live) only 3,770,000 attain the age of fifteen. One-third of the children die within the first five years of their 25th year; and of those at least 1,000,000 are found, by reason of shortness of stock and weakness of body, to be unfit for military duties.

Dr. Bury, of the Nineteenth Century Club, describing the cemetery of Kensal Green, in London, where Leigh Hunt, Thackeray and others famous in English history were said to be buried, said that he had been told that the bodies were kept apart for the burial of London's poor. The directors of the cemetery in a country which laid more stress on burial than any other in the world had, there were no graves, and the bodies were laid in the grave held in a row, making the total of 1,335,000 bodies of poor people buried there. It was figured that by burying the same ground once every ten years, the bodies of the poor of London would be buried in the grave.

This gave 2.2 feet of surface space to each body for one day only.

German Designs on Africa.

The Manchester Guardian's London correspondent writes that, from intelligence which has been received in this country, from Germany and Zanzibar there seems to be a possibility of German designs on immediate fresh annexations in Eastern Equatorial Africa on a much larger scale than has hitherto been attempted. It has already been announced that Dr. Ocas, a German explorer, has been sent to the Congo at the head of one of the most important geographical expeditions ever sent from Germany. At the same time Dr. Fischer, who preceded Dr. Ocas, has been sent to the Congo and to the country, is to go to the regions between the Congo and the Nile, approaching through Uganda, the kingdom of the Lushu, and the two travellers are to meet at the mouth of the Nile, and Dr. Fischer will hoist the flag of the Fatherland in the region on the south side of Kilimanjaro, and which Mr. H. E. John has been exploring for some time. It is most fascinating, fertile, and in every way promising regions of Africa. Dr. Fischer has been already concerned in the recent German acquisitions in the vicinity of the Congo, and he has been very successful, his, however, very much exaggerated, as it does not amount to more than 2,600 square miles. The importance attached to the acquisition of Africa to the empire of Dr. Ocas is very great, and it is, however, to a much more formidable expansion on the part of Germany in the region mentioned than is implied even in the acquisition of the Congo. The history of the region is considered not impossible that the German explorers may be able to rescue Lupton Bey, Emir Bey, and the Emir of the Egyptian Sudan, who, as no authentic news has been received by emissaries of the Mahdi has arrived, are believed to be still holding out.

The Afghan matchlock or jissal has no parallel as a firearm on the face of the earth. It is about five feet long, and is fitted near the muzzle with a strong which is used to pull the ball down into the barrel to be fired off. It is fitted with a powder pan and a catch for holding a fuse. An Afghan marksmen has to depend upon the accuracy of his aim, for he has no means of ascertaining shot. During the Afghan war it used to be a joke among the British soldiers that an Afghan would never miss his mark, but that he would calculate when his enemy would be likely to be in front of his muzzle, fix his fuse, and then go off to some little distance and wait until the enemy's army had arrived in front of the matchlock. He would then, if he was a good marksman, go off, why then he would most likely be killed, but if he didn't, and the weapon was not accurate, he would have had passed it, then no matter how long it and its owner would philosophically "wait" his jissal again in hopes of catching the enemy's army, and then he would go back, smoke and wait developments.

HERE AND THERE.

According to the Drug News, London fashion gives preference to holocaust over all perfume.

The Territorial Government of Dakota has offered a reward of $5,000 for the discovery and development of a mine of anthracite coal in that Territory, and prospectors are busy.

Lubbers, says Prof. Beckman, are now taken almost entirely from deep water, and at the present rate of decrease will shortly become curiosities, to be found only in museums.

Pray tell us, ladies, if you can, who is that highly favored man, who, though he is married many a wife, may be a bachelor all his life. A clergyman.

It is thought that, in their general conference next month the Mormons will renounce polygamy. But if they do, what will become of the "surplus"?

"Yes," said Jones, "when my wife gets mad she reminds me of a vessel under weigh." "How so?" inquired Smith. "Because she's got a head."

The Englishman who said that American girls did not know what to do with their arms certainly never had much experience in American parlors with the gas turned low.

Mr. R. B. Browning will send to the Gruesome Gallery, London, a portrait of his father, Mr. Robert Browning. It is painted for Balliol College, and depicts the poet seated in his university gown.

The Medical Journal states that a few hard fella of common sense have been introduced into closets, and an occasional hand full into basins, goes far toward counteracting the noxious effects of the omnipresent sewer gas.

A few years ago, says the London Standard, the young people of England became imbued with the roller skating craze, and risks were built all over the country. The fever, however, was as brief as any other vagaries of fashion; the enthusiasm died away, the risks were dismantled, the investors lost their money, and roller skates disappeared in the land.

Colored people are more successfully photographed, as a rule, than white people, says an experienced photographer. The medium utilized in making the first photograph in the world. Light colored clothes are hardest to take, and light colored clothing does not look well in pictures. In taking pictures of animals, a instantaneous process is best. Cats are the best sitters.

There is in Boston what may be termed the mind-cure epidemic. It has come up within the last few years, has taken extensive hold of the people, and is being vigorously taught and practiced as science. Large numbers of men and women who have learned the "science" are healing diseased people, as they claim. They have offices, and are paid to do other physicians. The thing is fashionable, too.

A bottle, to which a large bunch of valves had grown, was fished up recently by a Baltimore oysterman. Inside the bottle was a fish, and it got out of its mouth. It is supposed that the fish went into the bottle, and either liked its quarters so well that it tarried too long, or before it could find its way out, had grown a large and nearly full bottle. The bottled fish will be sent to the Smithsonian Institution.

According to the St. James's Gazette the bar at this moment is the most overstocked profession in England. The List of 1884 comprises 242 pages of counsel entitled to practice at the English bar, and each page contains on an average rather more than thirty names, thus yielding a grand total of 7,248 names of counsel for England and those British possessions where English counsel have a right of audience. This total does not include the members of the Scotch bar or of the Irish bar or of the bar of the Isle of Man.

A trustee of the Providence Public Library has gathered into a scrapbook the adventures of the boys who read dime novels, and has made it his business to ask the boys one by one to give up the habit. In these stories are to be found, in two or three readings, not only the imaginative story, but the way in which the small boy has attempted to realize how boys ought to live, and what they ought to be allowed to do. It is said that the dime novel boy usually reads the scrapbook, which is rapidly increasing in size as the fresh exploits of the dime novel adventures are added to it, about two hours a day. He then lays it down in disgust, and nothing can induce him to return to those stories again. He seeks the person in charge of the reading rooms for a better class of books.

There is still living in the north of Scotland an old lady who can give the curious visitors who sometimes drop in on her an interesting glimpse of Lord Byron. When the countess and her daughter, accompanied two or three holiday makers to Glamis Castle, then thrown open to visitors, and, at the entrance, fear fell upon them. By and by a handsome cavalier with a club foot, evidently a great at the castle, sauntered up the walk, and took to the situation at a glance. He put his arm round the prettiest girl's waist, and drew her close, gazing up at her and into the hall, where he even signed their names in the visitors' book for them. Gray are now the locks through which the prettiest fingers were to be seen. The survivor of the little incident looked to recall how George, Lord Byron, looked on that sunny May morning.

A citizen stepped into a drug store and picked up a small bottle of ammonia from the show-case. After drawing two or three inhalations, he said to the proprietor: "I see you have got hold of some new goods. It seems to be the right sort of stuff; just put me up a quart bottle of it."

Some Things that war may Teach.

Almost daily, the telegraph brings us news concerning minor wars and rumors of more important ones that are liable, without warning, to become realities. There have been, in the present century, cannon and small arms; the means of attacking, and likewise in the defense of fortifications; in torpedo boats and in the methods of the new naval warfare.

The more improvements that are made the greater the distances at which fighting is done. Breastworks will not afford the same protection they have heretofore given, as machine guns are armed at the proper elevation, will rain a leaden shower, at any distance, from a very short to a very long range, on the unprotected heads of those who have sought the old-fashioned shelter. A charge on a fortified position, however, will be a forlorn hope in nearly every instance, if the defenders are properly armed. Twenty years ago, massed loading guns were in general use, the breech-loaders in the United States army having been issued almost entirely to mounted troops. Frequently, in repelling a charge, there was no time to reload, but a single shot being at the disposal of each soldier; now, in addition to the many excellent patterns of rapid firing, breech-loaders are in use, capable of delivering from thirty to forty shots in the hands of an expert, fifty shots per minute. Of course breech-loaders were used in the past, but the small arms have ever equalled the execution of the later styles of magazine guns.

At what ranges will small arms be used? Will defeat be due to a failure to procure the right kind of rifle in scientific warfare? Will recent inventions successfully endure that test of actual service in the field? These are questions in which not only military men, but the major part of the men who use fire arms, will be deeply interested. It is not unlikely that if a war of any magnitude is fought, at its close, new needs will be made apparent, and the supposed improvements condemned. Already, the Alghas have made the important discovery that muzzle-loading guns are difficult to manage during a rapid firing, and that breech-loaders are practically worthless in the recent battle with the Russians. True, cartridges can be made that will obviate the difficulty to some extent, but the fact remains that breech-loaders with muzzle-loaders are practically beaten in advance.

It is generally conceded that owing to improved rifles and marksmanship, sharp-shooting skirmishes will take more important place in the future in the science of armed controversies. Great Britain has paid more attention to rifle shooting than any of the other Powers, a fact which will be made apparent if an army of that nation is ever involved in war with another of equal force. The British volunteers are particularly expert in the use of the rifle, and although pleasant to meet as competitors, would be the most dangerous of foes in a war. The more the nations will soon have cause to regret that it has not followed the good example set by Great Britain in fostering rifle practice; and that the major part of the army is something more than a pile, and that one of the most important accomplishments of a soldier is to know how to shoot.

An exchange, in commenting on the cause of this extraordinary strike, is as follows: In 1883 the assembly, or national parliament passed a bill enacting that the salaries of the clergy should be paid by the state, subject to a church rate which should be levied upon everybody and which would have about covered the expenditure. The people, however, resented the levying of the rate so unconditionally that it has never been collected. Last year when Mr. Zankoff was premier, he endeavored to gain the suffrages of the clergy for his party by ordering the treasury to advance the sum of $600,000 francs for the purpose of paying the clergy their stipends, hoping probably that the people might eventually be induced to pay the tax. This, however, they have refused to do, and further, the assembly, taking into consideration the increased expenditure necessitated by the new railway schemes of the present military government, has decided to let the item stand in the budget, at the same time requesting the cabinet to take measures to enforce the payment of the rate. The clergy, in turn, have offered no opposition to lose, and they at once began to turn to political agitation by urging the clergy to strike, a scheme which has proved completely unsuccessful. Between two alternatives, they are likely to choose the ground, as the people will certainly not pay the tax save under pressure which it would be dangerous for the government to attempt, to enforce, and to satisfy for themselves the bulk of the clergy have private means.

Striking Preachers.

A peculiar if not, indeed, an unprecedented strike is reported from Bulgaria. The clergy of the orthodox church have closed their churches throughout the principality, and not only refused to celebrate divine service, but have also declined to conduct baptismal and funeral services, or any other clerical offices. The cause of this extraordinary strike is as follows: In 1883 the assembly, or national parliament passed a bill enacting that the salaries of the clergy should be paid by the state, subject to a church rate which should be levied upon everybody and which would have about covered the expenditure. The people, however, resented the levying of the rate so unconditionally that it has never been collected. Last year when Mr. Zankoff was premier, he endeavored to gain the suffrages of the clergy for his party by ordering the treasury to advance the sum of $600,000 francs for the purpose of paying the clergy their stipends, hoping probably that the people might eventually be induced to pay the tax. This, however, they have refused to do, and further, the assembly, taking into consideration the increased expenditure necessitated by the new railway schemes of the present military government, has decided to let the item stand in the budget, at the same time requesting the cabinet to take measures to enforce the payment of the rate. The clergy, in turn, have offered no opposition to lose, and they at once began to turn to political agitation by urging the clergy to strike, a scheme which has proved completely unsuccessful. Between two alternatives, they are likely to choose the ground, as the people will certainly not pay the tax save under pressure which it would be dangerous for the government to attempt, to enforce, and to satisfy for themselves the bulk of the clergy have private means.

May 19 is the next date set by Adventists for the world to dissolve. All who are indebted to this office should pay it before that time.

The Scene of Operations.

Major Holzh, R. E., chief of the Geographical Section of the Russian Lend-Lease Commission, in the latest number of his home by him describes the country which is now the scene of operations. He says: "The first thing that strikes the eye on the right bank of the Kuskur, the river ceases trending away round to the left of the Marghab river, leaving a well-defined delta on the left bank, between the two rivers. This delta is a kind of a steppe for the river runs in narrow valleys some hundred feet below it, and out of this valley the river runs in a straight line, and on a level with the steppe. The Marghab is a deep and impassable river near Ak Tapa, between fifty and seventy feet wide. The ruins of the old Fendj fort are some five miles north of Ak Tapa on the left bank of the Marghab, and the new fort is a mile farther north. The latter is not remarkable in any way. It is probable that Dush Kopei, mentioned by the Russian General, is the old Fendj. The Marghab is a deep and impassable river near Ak Tapa, between fifty and seventy feet wide. Navigation will be closed for three months on the Rideau Canal from Ottawa to Kingston owing to damages by freshets. It will be open only from Kingston to Merrickville.

Boulogne Township, north of Madoc, furnishes material for a love story of unusual interest. In the district lived a manly German youth and a lusty German maiden. They met and loved. Another, fairer still, came along the horizon, and soon she realized that slowly but surely she was being eclipsed. It proved to be a false eclipse, as in a few months the youth and maiden No. 2 were joined in wedlock. Maiden No. 1 appealed to the court, but before the trial opened the plaintiff and defendant agreed to restore peace and sunshine to the clouded pathway of the discarded sweetheart, by the defendant delivering to the plaintiff ten bushels of potatoes, two dozen eggs, and doing two days' spring labor for the plaintiff's father.

The Kingston regatta will occur on Aug. 7th or 8th.

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so trusted with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctor gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By its continued use of the PECTORAL, a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your Cherry PECTORAL saved me."

HOMER FAIRBROTHER.

Rollingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup. It seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Cherry PECTORAL had cured my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,

MRS. J. A. GIBNEY."

120 West 125th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effective remedy for coughs and croup I have ever tried."

A. J. CHASE.

Lake Crystal, Minn., March 15, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL."

JOSEPH WALDEN.

Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long ago have died from lung troubles."

E. HADGON.

Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

A glance at the district outlined around Penjideh will show the relative positions of Russians and Afghans before the late-coming. Komaroff's attack on Penjideh may partly be explained by this. But it is an auspicious omen for the Russian cause, that the spirit that has animated the eastern movement of the Czar's armies. When Russia began her eastward march, that she would not stop until she reached the gate of India. Khiva, Bokhara, Balkh, Merv fell into her hands, and her troops went southward from Merv toward Herat, and thence toward Kandahar, and therefore under British protection. But just to the north of Herat, in the valley of the Rivers Margab and Hari-Rud, there were many places which, as some of the British officers said, were "not ours, but not theirs, and belonged to Turkestan." If they belonged to Afghanistan, then England claimed their protectorate. If they belonged to Turkestan, then Russia claimed their protectorate. The British appointed a commission to determine the ownership of these places, and Sir Peter Lumadze, an Anglo-Indian official, represented English interests in this body. While it was preparing to meet, the Russians and Afghans joined and encamped Penjideh. One of Alexandre Dumas contributes to the Curious anecdote told him by the late Henri Didier, a French diplomat in the Russian Empire. Didier's father was Secretary to the Minister of the Interior at the time when the Duchesse de Berry was arrested. He was sent to the frontier to advise the country against Louis Philippe and in favor of her son, the Count de Chambord. The traitor, Dieu's, agreed to tell to the Government of France, and it was the older Didier's duty to pay the sounder for his dirty work. He took his son Henri into the office and never forgot it. You will learn what a lache is, and the method of paying him. Dieu's was then brought into the room where M. Didier was waiting. He had a box of letters which were placed two packets, each containing 250,000 francs. As Dieu's needed the desk, M. Didier made a sign for him to take the packets. He did not, however, extended the packets one after the other into the hands open to receive them. Not a word was spoken; and, when the transaction was effected, M. Didier pointed to the door.

The petrified forest near Corlizo, on the Little Colorado, is a sight which travellers will not see and not miss. It begins to appear as the signs of petrification hours before he reaches the wonderland. Here and there, at almost every step along the road, small pieces of detached limbs and trunks may be seen almost hidden in the white sand. The road at a distance of ten miles from Corlizo enters an immense basin, the slope being nearly a semicircle, the surface of which is covered with a mass of shale and white clay. The petrified trunks, limbs, and, in fact, the whole trees, lie about on all sides; the action of the waters for hundreds of years has washed away the soft parts of the hills, leaving about, and the trees that once covered the high tablelands now lie in the valley beneath. Immense trunks, some of which measure over five feet in diameter, are scattered over a surface of 300 acres.

I am a commission merchant doing business in the West Indies. "I need some of your Patnam's Painless Corn Extractor when in Canada, and think it is the best cure for corns I have ever seen. Please send me a few dozen for friends and customers in South America and the West Indies."

The guinea hen never lays a golden egg. The demand for the "Myrtle Navy" tobacco is still on the increase, and from every quarter the demand is increasing. It is receiving unsolicited testimony of its growth in public favor. A gentleman from one of the "Young Islands" of Lake Huron, writes:—"Your 'Myrtle Navy' is an invaluable solace to the loneliness of the miner's life. I don't know how our men could get along without it. If their stock ran out they would risk swimming to the mainland to replenish it, heedless of danger, and I believe they would cross the ice in winter on the same errand. It is not more than an inch thick. No other tobacco will satisfy them."

NOTES OF THE DAY.

BY ARD.

By Nicholas Flood Darin.

Who means she's but a colony?

No national spirit there?

Race differences, faction's feuds

Her flag to tatters tear?

What rises o'er those snowy plains?

Whence on the virgin white stains?

Whose is that crimson dye?

Rebellion's ensign bids the hue.

From hill and dale, from forest glade,

And near those stony of crimson hue,

Canadian hearts lie cold.

Another ensign! Trumpets ring!

A youth this flag upholds;

And from every side men spring

And range beneath its folds.

Not race, nor creed the patriot's sword,

Not faction blunts to-day,

"Forward for Canada!" is the word

And eager for the fray.

Our youth press on and espers shame,

Their bearing bold and high

For this young nation's peace and fame.

Ready to do or die.

They come from hamlet and from town,

From hill and dale and glade

From where great patriots look down

France's Attitude.

Two circumstances having close connection with the Anglo-Russian contention must give the British government no small degree of perplexity, and indeed intense uneasiness. The first is the attitude of the amier toward the necessary passage of British troops through his territory. The latest accounts seem to indicate that he fears trouble with the more or less independent tribes which constitute the Afghan population if British troops are allowed to occupy the strategic points of the country. Still, if the British army is not allowed full play in this respect it will be useless to attempt to arrest the Russian advance anywhere north of the Bolar pass.

The second circumstance that appears to be just now looming up in this Anglo-Russian imbroglio is the attitude France will assume in case of an Anglo-Russian war. If she proposes to herself an important armed neutrality, looking to the future to more clearly determine her course, she will prove a source of great embarrassment to England in case of hostilities. She would in turn to some of the latter's most important military and naval movements, and greatly embarrass any campaign, either in Europe or Asia, that England would feel compelled to enter upon. In fact, a Franco-Russian alliance out and out would be less ominous of danger to England than an armed French neutrality. Consequently, if it is true, as is reported, that France is intriguing with Russia, it bodes no good to Great Britain. On the contrary, it would place her in opposition, in case of war with Russia, almost as unfavorable as any to which she found herself during the darkest period of the Napoleonic wars, when the dying Pitt ordered his map of Europe to be rolled up after an announcement of Bonaparte's triumph on the bloody field of Austerlitz.

Who Invented the Lucifer Match?

According to a German paper, the inventor of lucifer matches was a political prisoner who perfected his idea in 1803, within the walls of a Swiss prison. Kammerer was a native of Ludwigsburg, and when sentenced to six months' imprisonment at Hohenberg, he was fortunate enough to attract the notice and to gain the favor of an old flogger in charge of the prison, who, finding he was studying chemistry, allowed him to arrange a small laboratory in his cell. Kammerer had been engaged in researches with a view of improving the old-fashioned steeping system, according to which with splinters of wood, with sulphur at the ends, were dipped into a chemical fluid in order to produce a flame. The fluid was fresh the result was satisfactory, but, as it lost its virtues after a time, there was no general disposition to discontinue the old-fashioned system of using nit and steel. After many failures Kammerer began to experiment with phosphorus, and had almost completed his term of imprisonment when he discovered the right mixture and kindled a match by rubbing it against the walls of his cell. On coming out of prison he commenced the manufacture of matches. Unfortunately the absence of a patent lawyer prevented his rights from being secured, and, on an Austrian and other chemists analyzing the composition, imitators speedily made their appearance. In 1835 the German States prohibited the use of these matches, considering them dangerous. When they were made in England and sent to the Continent these regulations were withdrawn, but too late to be of any benefit to the inventor, who died in the madhouse of his native town in 1867.

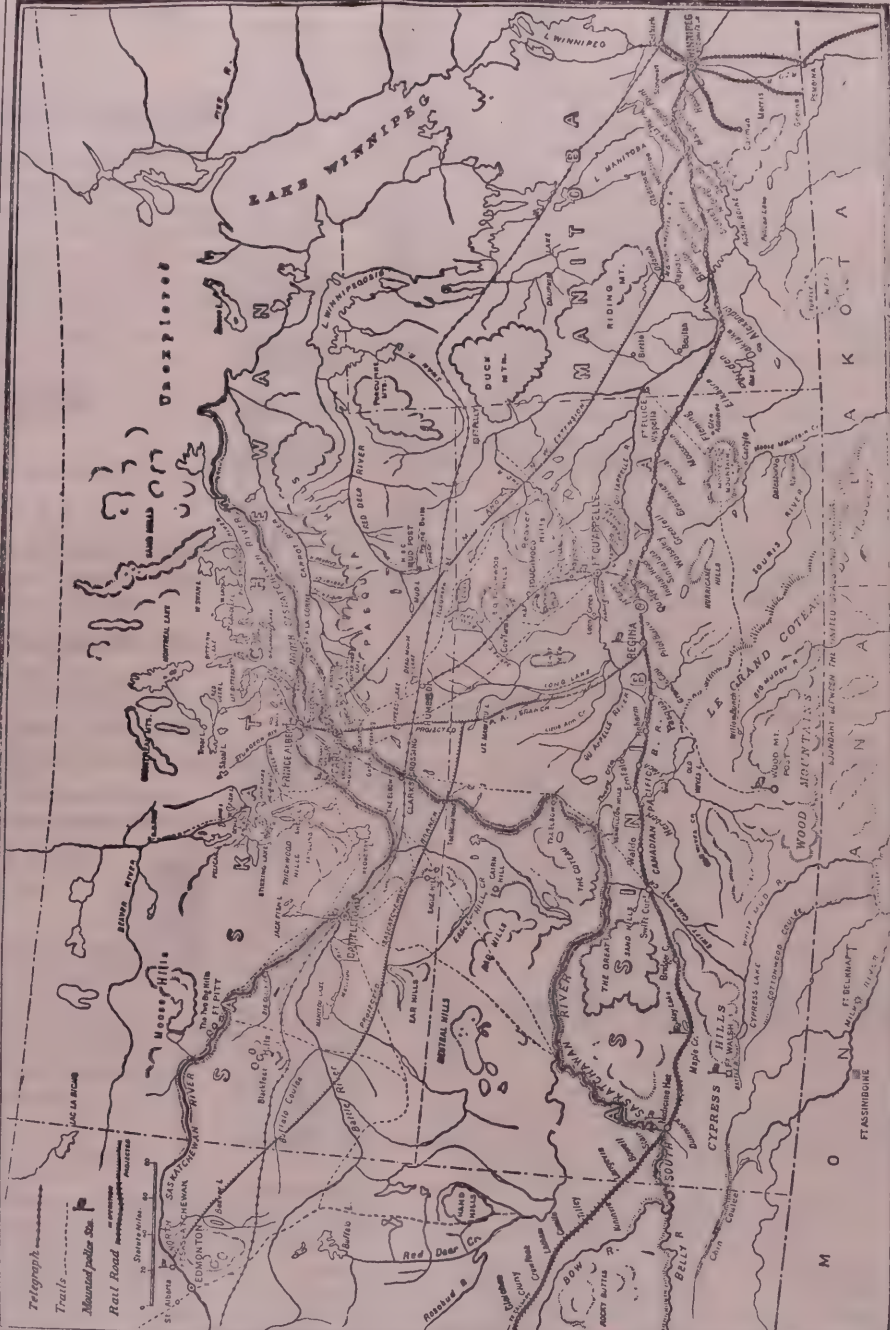

Dred in His Rival's Blood.

Another homicide has occurred in Adams Township, Indiana. For three years Luther Brown has been courting Cythiana Alchire, a neighbor's daughter. A short time ago she jilted him and turned her affections to Eli Cummins, another neighbor's boy. Cummins and Brown were both members of the string band. They met at Alchire's house one night to furnish music for a dance. Miss Alchire ordered Brown from the house, saying: "You have talked about me."

Brown and a companion named Little went to the barn and waited until Cummins passed on his way home from the dance. About 11 o'clock Cummins passed the barn. Brown threw a stone and hit him, and then attacked him with a knife. The first blow of the knife penetrated the heart. A dozen blows followed in quick succession. Cummins sank to his knees and cried for mercy. Brown left him, went to a brook, washed the blood from his hands and knife and started home. By this time Cummins was dead. Brown made a fire, and in the morning Marshal Coburn arrested him and looked him up in the county jail. Brown is perfectly cool about the matter. Little was arrested also.

Mrs. Garfield.

Garfield once said about this woman: "I have never had in my life, although there would have been plenty of excuse if she had made such a mistake, to apologize for anything that my wife has had to say concerning me. My defective memory has its own sensitibility, and a very little thing Mrs. Garfield might say that was ill-timed or hasty would go very far against me. But she was so discreet that I have not a single instance of the kind on record. She is never stampeded," said Garfield. She is the coziest when things excite me most. Now said he, she is doing at present what I did for her; I taught her Latin at school, and she is now teaching our children Latin and preparing them to go to Exeter." President Cleveland, I see, has been entertaining at Exeter his own children of Garfield. This is one of the best testimonials I have seen to Cleveland's light domestic intentions.

MAP OF THE NORTH WEST.

In order to give our readers the best it is possible in regard to the present North West Rebellion we have procured an excellent map of the whole Territory, which is published herewith. The map will be well worth preserving for future reference during the present unfortunate disruption, as all the principal places of interest are clearly marked out and can be traced at once. The Province of Manitoba is not disturbed by this rebellion, but it is laid down on the map, so as to give a better idea of the whole. It will be seen that Winnipeg is located in the south-east corner, and from here the Canadian Pacific Railway stretches clear across the country to the rocky Mountains, and along the men and supplies are easily transported to the nearest possible points. Qu'Appelle (pronounced Kapelle) Station lies a few miles east of Regina, and from here the trail extends across the vast prairies for many hundreds of miles. There is no railway north of this, and it is from this station that the volunteers took their long, dreary march towards Clarke's Crossing and on to Batoche. About midway between Clarke's Crossing and Batoche, is Fish Creek, where the first fierce bloody engagement with the rebels took place. The distance to traverse in this march was nearly 250 miles.

Beyond this lies Frog Lake, made memorable by the bloody work there at the very outset. North-west from this lies Bathford, at one time the point of much interest a few weeks ago because of the besieged condition of the white settlers there until the longed-for relief came. Fort Pitt, also now memorable because of the massacre there, lies still farther west on the Saskatchewan River, and Fort Saskatchewan and Edmonton are at the extreme north-western extremity. As these points all lie in the territory peopled by the disaffected Indians and Halfbreeds, there is a dread possibility that much stirring news may yet come from them. At Medicine Hat, on the main line of the C. P. Railway the South Saskatchewan river crosses the road, and from here ammunition and supplies are being transported by river steamers to Clarke's Crossing, and other points in the far interior. It was on this river that the steamer Northcote was stuck with the cargo of first supplies to Gen. Middleton, causing such a long delay in the expected attack on Riel's encampment at Batoche. The river is very crooked, and filled with many sand-bars, very annoying and dangerous to navigation. When the ice first leaves, the river is at its lowest, but rises a good deal during May and June. The following tables of distances may help to give some idea of the extent of country now being traversed: From Winnipeg to Regina by railway 366 miles; Regina to Batoche, about 260 miles. The Saskatchewan River, including its two branches, starting from Lake Winnipeg, is navigable for a distance of 2,800 miles. From Edmonton to the nearest point on the railway south is about 200 miles. From Swift Current station to the South Saskatchewan river, where the supplies are being now shipped, is 28 miles. The line of telegraph laid down on the map from Winnipeg to Humboldt does not now exist. Such a line was built and in operation some years ago, but it is down now. The present line in operation is via Qu'Appelle and thence along the line of railway.

No Baby in the House.

BY CLARA G. DODD-IVER.

No baby in the house, I know,
Is far too nice and clean;
No baby by corners, floors or stove
Upon the floor are seen.
No baby marks on the pane
No scratches on the chair;
No wooden mug set up in row,
Or mended off in pairs.
No little stockings to be darned,
All mended at the store;
No pile of mending to be done,
Made up of baby clothes;
No little trunks to be soiled
No little babies to be told;
No new wigs to be washed
Or mended off in pairs.
No tender faces to be given
No nicknames "Daddy," "Mama,"
No every "Papa" after tea.
No baby in the house!

The first offensive blow, if war is to be, England will consequently seek to inflict on Russia in the Baltic and Black seas. Indeed, if such were not the intention, for what earthly purpose is England preparing enormous fleets with all the modern and most approved engines of war? In fact, at this moment divisions of these fleets are said to be waiting in British ports ready to steam to their destinations upon the outbreak of hostilities.

"Johnny, do you know the tenth commandment?" "Yes, sir." "Say it." "Can't." "But you just said you knew it, Johnny." "Yes, sir, I know it when I see it."

With respect to the Black Sea, the British has the right to refuse to permit warships to enter or leave it. This right he has repeatedly exercised. Of itself, however, Turkey does not naturally desire to exercise this right against England. Every blow directed against Russia is a blow in Turkey's favor. Consequently, the most that Russia can expect of Turkey is passive neutrality. This would imply a formal protest against the entry of a British fleet into the Euxine, sufficient to guard the rights of Turkey; for certainly Russia cannot expect that Turkey's neutrality would include the obligation of protecting Russia from attack. Nor can the European expect to do so, unless all Europe is prepared to side with Russia.

RIEL, the leader of the Northwest rebellion, was captured last week by several scouts to whom he gave himself up without a struggle. He was brought into camp where he has since remained a prisoner. With his capture following on the severe defeat and losses sustained by the rebels at Batoche the backbone of the insurrection is broken. The Indians, whose operations still continue even in the most remote districts of the country, remain to the north. It is hoped that learning of the half-breeds' surrender the Indians will see the futility of further resistance and at once return to their reserves. The great question is what punishment shall be meted out to the leaders in this disastrous insurrection. Public opinion demands condign punishment, but party necessities may, as in many other cases, prevent the infliction of the penalties deserved on this occasion.

THE TRIBUNE has advocated the passage of that clause of the Franchise Bill which requires the franchise in all parts of the Dominion. It is nothing but fair that Parliament should decide its electorate. Another reason for our support of the measure is that from the Dominion Parliament the bone of manhood suffrage is most likely to be first received. It is only quite possible that none in this generation may witness the concession of this principle, but as we have said it is from the Dominion Parliament that Ontario will most likely first secure such a needed extension of the franchise. We had fondly hoped that the local government, when it brought in its franchise bill during the last session would have been liberal enough to concede manhood suffrage. With its accustomed timidity it contented itself with a half-hearted measure not at all in keeping with what might be expected from a liberal administration. We turn then to the Dominion parliament as being more likely to be the first of the two legislatures to grant this measure so greatly required in this young country.

Mr. Mitchell's amendment to the Franchise Bill, by which it was proposed to grant manhood suffrage, was of course voted down though supported by a few members from both political parties. This shows how slow our legislators are in keeping pace with the spirit of the times. As we have previously stated the United States owe very much of their wonderful growth and prosperity to the far-seeing statesmen who drew up the constitution of that country, and who inserted the clause granting the suffrage to every citizen over twenty-one years of age. Our so-called statesmen still cling to the idea that a few dollars or a few feet of land more or less make a man an intelligent elector. They thus effectually shut out thousands from the old world who would otherwise settle under the flag of the Dominion and deprive thousands of our young men from casting a vote and thus expressing an opinion on public questions. The country is at present justly proud of the brave volunteers who have risked their lives in suppressing rebellion. It is probable, however, that these brave men of these young men have not a vote, nor are they likely to get the privilege of the franchise for many a year to come from the legislatures of Canada. They are splendid fellows when they shed their blood in the defence of lives and property, but when it comes to granting them the suffrage they are vulgar fellows not entitled to be trusted with such a privilege. A third party with a platform based on modern ideas is the necessity of the hour.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Deseronto, May 18th, 1885.
The Council met in the Council Room, all the members present, the Reeve presiding.
Minutes of last meeting were read and adopted.
Moved by Mr. Baker, seconded by Mr. Irvine, that a culvert be made at the corner of Main and First St., on the request of Mr. T. Tooch, Jr.
Petitions were received from Mr. Wm. Evans and 56 others, praying that drains be made on each side of Fourth St., commencing at Dundas and connecting with the sewers already constructed; and from Mr. Godfrey Colp and 7 others, praying that a sidewalk be laid on the west side of Mill St., to Thomas St. south.
On the petition of Mr. W. Evans and others, it was moved by Mr. Edwards, seconded by Mr. Baker, that the drain on Fourth St. be continued to Dundas St., the opening to 18 inches wide and 2 feet high, with a gradual fall from Dundas St. to opening of the drain on Thomas St., and that a drain of the same dimensions be constructed on the west side of Fourth St. from Dundas to Thomas St., opening into the Thomas street drain and that the drain on the north side of Thomas street from the church corner to the old box drain be opened and that a culvert be constructed across Thomas street opposite the residence of D. Dufour and that the Clerk advertise for tenders for the above work. Carried.
The petition of Mr. Godfrey Colp and others was referred to the side walk Committee, on motion of Mr. Edwards seconded by Mr. Nasmith.
Moved by Mr. Baker, seconded by Mr. Edwards, that the drain on the east side of Center street between Thomas and Dundas street be opened. Carried.
Moved by Mr. Nasmith, seconded by Mr. Irvine, that the prices quoted by the Keith Bros. Co. for lumber for 1885 be accepted. Carried.
Moved by Mr. Baker, seconded by Mr. Edwards, that the Clerk send account for rent of Council Room for twenty four days at $1.00 per day to Mr. M. Hall, Carried.

Moved by Mr. Baker, seconded by Mr. Nasmith, that the first meeting of the Court of Revision be held in the Town Hall on the 15th day of June at 7.30 p. m.
Moved by Mr. Baker, seconded by Mr. Irvine, that the Clerk have a notice inserted in the Town Hall in reference to the registration of dogs. Said Notice to have three insertions. Carried. Council adjourned.
R. N. IRVINE, Clerk.

GENERAL SESSION OF THE BALDHEAD CLUB.

Session opened in due and ancient form—Minutes of last Session read and filed.
The Chairman in his opening efforts hoped for a complete ventilation of the many grave and significant questions which are just now agitating the public mind. He cautioned the brethren to be guarded and temperate in their arguments and not to do or say anything which would involve difficulty in backing out.
The "Inevitable" was, with anxious solicitude depicted on his generally placid countenance slowly assumed as he perceived that the Chairman's remarks would admit and said he felt a growing alarm at the persistent efforts of science and quackery to exterminate as it were the distinguishing feature of the brotherhood. He held in his hand a paragraph clipped from our local paper advertising another new and wonderful discovery by the use of which the other claimed a reproduction of nature's covering on the (beldest pate that ever shone). He could not trespass on their time in discussing measures for contracting this agency but hoped for united action on the part of the brethren to systematically sit on and all such innovations which are calculated to threaten the perpetuity of our ancient time honored and beloved principles!
The "Inevitable" rose and propounded the following—"Does the Mule kick from inherent depravity or simply from fear of circumstances?" The Chairman promptly answered a severe rebuke and intimated to the brethren that the characteristics of the mule were not just then under consideration.
The "Judge" said he perceived with grave apprehension evidences of the "tender passion" among prominent members. He trusted the attack would be temporary and that no brother would render himself liable in this respect particularly to the penalty of his obligation.
The "Inevitable" rose to a question of privilege and recited "Love's young Dream" wondered at the peculiar gravity of his listeners and was again extinguished by the Chairman.

The Session now went into committee of the whole on the "European question" and some lively discussion ensued but as members were rather mixed in their geography, the Chairman ruled that the debate be laid over, to allow a little more reading up on the subject.

Submitted by the "Ancient" and resolved that the determined attitude of our local Council forecasts a depletion in the population of our overcrowded village and that they receive the endorsement of this Club.
And be it further resolved that in as much as this Club is characteristically disposed towards all institutions which have for their object Moral advancement or Physical development, it be elected an honorary member of these bodies and entitled to all the benefits of such arrangements.

Work on the Bolan railway on the Afghan frontier is making good progress. England will employ only native officers to a large extent in her Indian army.
Mrs. Davidson, a good friend of the Indians in the Northwest is dead. She was horribly treated by the Indians who passed her around from one band to another. The squaws cut her to pieces.

THE SCHOOL BOARD have given Monday, the 25th, as a holiday to the teachers and scholars of the Public Schools.

LARGE ARMIES FOR EUROPE.

The situation of the crowned heads of Europe is not a happy one at present. In order to be prepared for the worst larger armies will have to be organized, so that when the clash comes—and from the signs it will not be long in arriving—the governments may be prepared.
Another reason for maintaining large standing armies arises from the fact that these governments have enemies within that are more sincerely dreaded than the enemies without.
In the first lines of these internal foes are the Socialists, Nihilists of various types, who are spreading over Europe and becoming more and more formidable to the Government. While such enemies are stirring there is little reason to expect that Germany or Austria, or any other government in Europe, will make a substantial reduction of its standing army.
Behind the regular conspirators against all governments are the masses of the people, whose demand for greater share of political rights are constantly increasing. In relating the claims for such political rights as belong to the people of this country, the armies of Europe in the near future will have far more employment than in repressing the Nihilists and Irreconcilables who are satisfied with nothing short of the destruction of all social order and government.

FLAG LOST.

AT ONE of the entertainments held in the Presbyterian School Room, early in the winter, a valuable flag, a British red ensign, was taken away, probably by mistake. Any one having it in their possession will greatly oblige by leaving it at THE TRIBUNE office.

MELROSE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
The boys had a game of base ball last Saturday night.
Well everybody is busy getting in their grain at last. A good many will finish this week.
There was a time of great rejoicing when the news came that the Kiel was captured. Some say that they should think he would feel greatly relieved to be perfectly safe at last.

People are greatly pleased to see the Rev. Mr. Henderson around again, and to hear him preach on Sundays. He is a student from Queen's College, and was present for the Presbyterians during the summer, as they have no station minister.

GREEN POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Mr. Thorp Carman has his new barn nearly completed.
A Sunday School has been started at Mt. Carmel Church.

Mr. Wm. Dewart is confined to his bed with a severe attack of rheumatism.
Miss Dolly Loece, who has been under the doctor's care for some weeks, is improving very slowly.

Mrs. Sierichs, of Belleville, is visiting at Mr. Henry Carman's as is also Mrs. Carman's mother.
Mr. Thos. Carman is complaining of illness a good deal this spring. He is confined to the house the most of the time.
The weather has been very fine the past week and the farmers are improving the time. Fall grain and meadows are looking very good, and farmers are again becoming cheerful.

NAPANEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Napanee is not a manufacturing town, in the real sense of the term. Of course we have a few factories, but only a limited number of hands are employed in them, and their output is not large. Although the town is situated at the head of navigation on the beautiful Napanee river, our people do not enter into maritime pursuits as one might suppose they would. Our merchants, who, if they were obliged to depend upon local patronage for subsistence would fare on a slim diet, are in consequence obliged to look abroad for support, and for this support have to rely principally upon the farmers in the surrounding country. As a matter of course therefore when the spring seedling time comes on, our streets are comparatively deserted, and this year in an especial degree, owing to the extreme backwardness of the season. Our merchants and their clerks at present have considerable leisure time, and may be seen in groups of two and three in front of their shops, discussing the weather, forecasting the harvest, deciding the fate of Kiel, and wondering if they will have a good day when the circus comes to town.

The question of and what the government will do with him now that he is caught, is all absorbing topic at present. Some earnest Tories propose that the government make him Lieut. Governor of the North West Territories, and then pass an act compelling all gridders to immigrate into some part of the country over which his jurisdiction extends. Considering the rapid rate at which they—the Grits—were thrown when the news of Kiel's uprising was received, they doubtless would be glad to be under his rule. Our Grit friends retort that Sir John should take him in hand and complete his education, which has been sadly neglected in an inferior branch of study. He should teach him that there is a better way of getting grievances settled, than by resorting to force—that bullion, not bullets, is the more effective weapon of modern warfare. "Take my advice," Sir John says, "I am old, and well used in the wicked ways of this world, and know that where I speak is true. There is more power in the logic of a ten dollar bill than in a ton of gunpowder. It disarms your enemy and does not endanger yours. It is the way of well being. Always remember, my friend, that gold is more potent than lead, be it fired with ever so true an aim." Napoleon said, "God is on the side of the heavy battalions." We of a more modern day have improved on that, and say, "Victory is for him who carries the heaviest purse."

Are you lacking in tone or taste? Have you been, through force of circumstances, prevented from occupying a place in the higher walks of life, and are you now training and education been a bar to your admission into the charmed circle of culture and refinement? If so, then, I have to say you missed a grand opportunity on Monday evening last. A Literary Association in connection with one of the churches here gave an entertainment on that evening. Among the attractions advertised was the privilege of "Promenading with some of the town's choicest society," at least that was the way the hand-bill which was circulated expressed it. For some reason or another, the affair did not turn out the success which your young bloods anticipated. I do not know why, unless it was that the common herd were not in a mind to have their uncouth manners and irregularities serve as a foil to show off with greater brilliancy the beauty and grace of the aristocracy. As for our lah-de-lah ladies and gentlemen, "The mind which originates such a hand-bill as was circulated, is sufficient to prove, that he who spends his all in the adornment of his person, sadly neglects a mental condition, which requires the utmost care and attention to prevent it from collapsing entirely."

BURNING DEL.
Twins.—On Monday 18th inst., the wife of Edwin Brooks, of the 47th St. Band, of twin daughters.
I was going to remark when I first heard of the event recorded above, how refreshing it was to hear of such patriotism as that displayed by Mr. Brooks in this time of Canada's danger and necessity, when her brave sons are falling, and fighting on the battle field in the wild Northwest. But when the sex of the new arrivals was disclosed, it struck me that my remarks would not be apropos of the occasion.
Workmen are now employed on the new swing bridge putting in another set of gears for turning the swing, and henceforth it will be a double-headed concern. As a side-gle-gle institution it has lately required the combined force of the chief and all his following to turn it, and it is reported as much more force to handle the second set of gears, it would be wise economy to set up a stationary engine for the purpose of opening and closing it.

Gough to-night. Your town will be represented I presume. No doubt he will have a full house, as this will likely be the last opportunity our people will have of hearing the veteran orator. Advancing years will soon compel him to retire from the platform upon which his brightest laurels have been won.

The Scott Act Association of Lennox and Addington held a great demonstration on Saturday, to celebrate the victory achieved in January last. It will be the largest affair of the kind ever inaugurated and carried out in Central Ontario. A number of delegates on their way to attend a session of the Grand Lodge to be held in Toronto, have had the willingness to stop off and address the meeting; J. B. Child and others. There is to be a chorus of a thousand voices, composed of the children attending the various Sabbath Schools in the county—a grand time is anticipated. Master Policeman, will you escort me just the corner of John and Dundas Streets, there are a lot of rough looking men using bad language standing there, and I am afraid to go by them unattended—and besides there is so much tobacco juice and so many old quids on the sidewalk, that I am afraid of ruining my skirts, please get a broom—and sweep it before we go over.

VOLUNTEERS' RELIEF FUND.

SHANNONVILLE, May 19th.—A well attended meeting of ladies was held on Friday afternoon, 8th inst., in the old Methodist Church, to co-operate with the ladies of Belleville in sending such personal comforts as would be needful to our volunteers now to the front. A proposition to organize and carry out an auxiliary relief scheme was submitted and approved, and a relief committee was appointed consisting of the following officers—Mrs. Dr. McLaren, President; Miss Appleby, Vice-President; Miss Cropper, Secretary, and Miss Davidson, Treasurer.

An energetic committee was appointed to thoroughly canvass the village and vicinity, which was divided into wards, and the contributions received were as follows:—
McLaren, $10.00
Milliken and East, 9.08
1st con. Tyne, and 2nd Thur., 8.13
2nd con. Tyne, 7.71
From Road, 7.50
Shannonville and South, 26.50

Total, $80.78
Donations of soap, 1 doz. toilet soap, 3 handkerchiefs and 2 jars fruit.

At the meeting on Monday night, May 11th, Mrs. Dr. McLaren, Mrs. L. E. Mills and Miss Sprague and Cropper were authorized by the committee to procure the necessary articles, viz:—

7 Shirts, $10.00
7 Houses, 14.00
7 Handkerchiefs, 1.75
7 Mosquito Nets, 7.00
7 Cans Turkeys, 2.45
10 Cans Sardines, 1.75
12 Cans Salmon, 8.00
5 Cans Lobsters, 7.50
8 Pounds B. Sausage, 1.00
8 Cans Strawberries, 6.00
8 Cans Peaches, 1.54
53 Pounds Cheese, 5.00
144 " Tobacco, 5.00
6 " Tea, 4.40
20 " Wine Biscuit, 2.00
2 doz. Soap, 1.20
3 doz. Handkerchiefs, 2.80
Cart to Belleville, 1.00
Paid L. E. Mills, 2 cans, 25

Total, $80.78
Altogether the amount collected which were bought equalled the amount collected which were secured packed on Tuesday, together with presents from parents and friends, and shipped to Belleville with the aid of the Patriotic Relief Association furnished the two Belleville companies.

Great credit is due to our village school girls who were the instigators of this noble work, and we heartily thank the public for their liberal contributions in aiding us to advance the comfort of our gallant boys.

PINE GROWING WEATHER. Trees are leafing out and summer has arrived; 73 yesterday in the shade.

Mr. W. J. Widdrington is removing his residence to the new cottage recently erected by Mr. J. Allen on Second Street.

MALCOLM CAMERON, son of Mr. Jas. Cameron, of the Central Depot, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon while playing up at the school. He was thrown from the swing by one of the larger boys and got caught under it somehow, with the painful result that he dislocated his right arm. The task of relieving the dislocation was most difficult and painful but was successfully accomplished by Dr. Clinton.

A MARVELOUS STORY

TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.

FROM THE SON: "On Cedar St., New York, Oct. 25, 1882.

"Gentlemen: My father resides at Glover, Vt. He has been a most suffering man from rheumatism, and the enclosed letter will tell you what a marvellous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years; but I did not know, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about five years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case. Yours truly, W. M. PHILLIPS.

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and scrofulous sores. The humor caused an incessant and intolerable itching, and the skin cracked so as to cause blood to flow in many places whenever I moved. My sufferings were great, and my life a burden. I commenced the use of the Sarsaparilla in April last, and have used it regularly since that time. My condition began to improve at once. The sores have all healed, and I feel perfectly well every respect—being now able to do a good day's work, although 73 years of age. Many inquire what has so wonderfully cured me, and I tell them, as I have here to tell you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Glover, Vt., Oct. 21, 1882. Yours gratefully, HIRSH PHILLIPS.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworms, Blisters, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It cures the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists; $1; six bottles for $5.

THE Council, as will be seen by advt, call for tenders for several important public works.

MESSRS Wm. Smith, and Wm. Trimble, two Napanee bicyclists, rode into town on Monday evening.

THEY were followed by a number of Napanee by train the same evening.

MR. J. E. RATHBUN, of Solmesville, has a duck which easily beats all previous records.

It recently laid two eggs a night for three nights in succession.

DAWES and Heggarty have once more got the good ship Janbar to leave on Monday.

THEY are waiting for an invitation to enjoy a pleasant sail to Grassy Point or Good Time Cove.

WILL the council make some provision for sprinkling the principal thoroughfares this season or shall the business men of Main and St. George streets be compelled to grapple with the question themselves?

THE whole community have been suffering from a plague of small flies during the past week.

THEY infest every nook and corner, and though not aggressive like the house fly, they are none the less a disagreeable nuisance.

MR. SAMUEL CROFT showed us, through the grasp of H. B. Rathbun, Esq., the other day. The vines have a healthy appearance and are well forward, with every indication of huge clusters of grapes during the coming season.

READ the advertisement concerning the dog by-law which is in force here.

THE penalty for non-compliance with the law is the destruction of the dogs whose owners will be fined a sum not exceeding ten dollars.

THEY are to be no more no-nonsense about this matter.

THERE are some subscribers who have not yet arranged that little bill at the Tribune office.

OUR thanks are due to those who have so kindly and thoughtfully remembered us in this direction.

PARENTS and guardians will encourage the pupils of the Public Schools by attending the entertainment this evening.

CAPT. S. ANDERSON, Jr., had the good ship "Janbar" out on a trial trip the other day. She behaved herself satisfactorily and the Captain says will hold her own with the Monitor—any other fast sailing craft of the day.

THE D-er-onto and Picton Cricket Clubs play a friendly match next Monday forenoon and afternoon in the Victoria field in the east end of town.

THIS event will attract a large number of visitors, the Picton club being one of the best in Ontario.

REMEMBER the entertainment given by the teachers and pupils of the Public Schools this evening (Friday) in the Presbyterian School Room.

IT is unusual to find so much of unusual merit and everything points to a large audience. No one will be allowed to go home dissatisfied.

A SUGGESTION is made that it would be desirable for the council to pass a chimney sweeping ordinance. There have been several cases in which property has been at great risk of destruction owing to the neglect of some persons in cleaning out their chimneys.

THE Belleville Board of Trade are desirous of having the time of the Quince changed to the same as last year that the people of Northport and the High Shore may have better opportunity of reaching the Belleville market. Belleville, unlike Deseronto, makes an effort to secure the country trade.

A YOUNG man named Joseph Harrison belonging to it is said to be St. John's New Brunswick, was accidentally drowned on Tuesday while driving logs in Salmon river.

SAM'L. ALEXANDER, the boss of the drive, telegraphed to St. John's police to get a warrant in order that his friends might be acquainted with the sad fate of his dead.

THE Deseronto Council have engaged the Picton next Tuesday evening. An excellent quartet band has been engaged and the band itself will appear in their handsome new uniforms. Nothing will be left undone by the Committee to make the excursion a success. Tickets 25cts. Proceeds for the Band Fund.

GRATE LODGE, A. F. & M. have the honour of holding their 11th annual high light excursion of the season which will take place next Monday evening, the 25th inst.

THE Quince has been engaged and will leave the dock for Picton at 7 A.M. The arrangements will be provided and a good quartet band will furnish the music. The first excursion is always enjoyed and this one will not prove an exception.

I. L. R. in his interesting communication makes what is certainly a reasonable suggestion. Mr. R. is a most popular official and well deserves such recognition. His photograph is before us as we write and it is not without reason that there is a handsome uniform, more especially now that a rush of summer travel has commenced over the Thousands Islands Railway.

Do you wish to enjoy a hearty laugh? Go to the Entertainment this evening.

THE Chief is busily engaged at present suppressing the fire-cracker nuisance. The sale of these explosives should be suppressed at once.

MR. DAVID TAIT is building a five twelve foot yacht which he expects to have completed in about three weeks.

HE expects it to be one of the fastest vessels on the Bay of Quinte.

WE HAVE received a copy of the Peterborough Morning Times a new daily published in that town.

Peterborough is the most prosperous place in Central Ontario and the new journal will be well patronized.

WE trust to hear that steps have been taken to form a good fire brigade in town as we still remain without any organization.

An efficient brigade with an engine to direct them could easily be secured.

THE post office officials were obliged to vacate on Wednesday afternoon when Mr. Bowen soon got matters into shape and Mr. George met his customers Thursday morning with his accustomed pleasant smile.

MANAGER Richardson and his staff behaved like heroes, and his soldiers were working like Trojans to get things into shape.

ALL the goods were got in on Wednesday evening and business will be immediately resumed.

INSPECTOR Adams has been examining the different bay steamers at Picton this week.

Clothed with a little brief authority a permanent inspector can perform such tricks before high heaven as would make even mariners weep.

THE following are officers of the Deseronto Cornet Band for the current year:—L. V. Crook, Secy.; Marshall Oliver, Treasurer.

THE services of N. V. Mallory have been secured as leader and instructor for another year.

THE new tug "Rescue," built in the Deseronto ship yard under the supervision of Mr. Wm. Evans, for the Rathbun Company to work on the lake, was launched Saturday.

THE launch was successfully launched Saturday. She is a staunch, fireproof craft and will be well adapted for service on the lake.

WE are glad to hear that the early closing movement now promises to be a complete success this season.

LAST year the selfishness of a few prevented its being successfully carried out, but this year it is not so much difficulty this season.

BUSINESS men and clerks will greatly enjoy the pleasure of having the stores closing to themselves.

THE Secretary of the North East Association for the County of Hastings issues a circular calling a meeting of the Central Committee at Stirling, on Friday 29th inst, for two sittings at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

ALL clergymen and other Temperance workers are members and a full attendance is requested.

TAKING were the usual number of stirring episodes at the fire, but time would fail to tell of the exploits of the amateur firemen who figured so extensively on the occasion.

ON all sides but the one they destroyed figures and grim looking faces, while many display torn coats and shirts and most atrocious looking hats.

MR. SAMUEL STUW had the misfortune to lose his horse the other day. He was sending away a load of bones by train when the animal was startled and despite his efforts to stop the load, he was hurled all into the bay.

THE poor beast was drowned and some of the load lost though the wagon was recovered.

THE loss is a heavy one to Mr. Stuw who has a thriving business in the city.

THE Salvation Army are now marching on this place, some of its advanced guard having learned its present defenceless condition.

THEY will have an invasion with the assault probably about the end of next week. Their head quarters will be Independence Hall, the proprietor having kindly placed it at their disposal on such evenings as it will not be otherwise engaged.

THE population of the British Empire consisted 39,000,000 Anglo-Saxons, 188,000,000 Hindus, 88,000,000 Mohammedans, making, with others a total of 315,000,000.

THE area of the Empire and its colonies is 10,099,000 square miles. The annual revenue including the local taxation, $204,000,000.

THE number of trained soldiers is 850,000 besides 560,000 policemen. The school attendance is 8,021,000.

THE Martha Washington Ten Party under the auspices of the Ladies Musical Association came off as announced last Friday evening.

A brief programme of readings, songs, and recitations was carried through under the direction of Mr. J. D. Burgess, the chairman of the evening.

THE various performers acquitted themselves creditably. The Glee Club sang their repertory, while Mr. Archer's songs, being something new, took well.

MR. ARCHER is a welcome addition to our local amateur talent. The tables, the army and navy, was excellent, the party being taken by Miss Stoddard and Messrs Taylor and Hoppins.

MR. SAMPSON, of the Ladies Musical Association, was vociferously applauded.

THE New England supper was much enjoyed. Mrs. Colborne as Martha and Mr. J. D. Brewer, as George, taking their part with becoming lightness.

THE heavy of pretty waiters would have made the most frugal party palatable to visitors, but the Hostess, Mrs. Colborne, and her assistants, who stood on their own merits while that "Punkin" pie was particularly good.

A GOOGLY sum was realized. By the way, the ladies of the Glee Club, who sang at the Deseronto custom of commencing the proceedings long after the appointed hour, commencing at 8:45, instead of 8 o'clock, sharp. This is not desirable.

ON Wednesday afternoon between four and five o'clock an alarm of fire was given, which was found that the small brick building, east of the Big Store, used for storing oil, paint &c., was in flames, while a huge column of dense smoke arose from the building.

THE fire was of some unknown cause, immediately to the rear of the oil house and in that part of the premises for which the place was in a blaze. Mr. Richardson, the manager, with J. Hart and A. Bogart at great risk removed some powder which had been stored in that part of the premises for safety.

THE wind blowing lightly from the east drove the flames in the direction of the Big Store, which was in flames. The staff of the establishment was soon in a blaze. There was a scarcity of water or this could have been of great service. The staff of the establishment was soon in a blaze. There was a scarcity of water or this could have been of great service.

THE removal of stuff from the rear of the store to which it was thought the fire might yet be confined. The flames, however, continued to grow, and the removal of all the goods was at last considered a necessity.

THE task was accomplished with wonderful celerity, every one giving assistance, and the vacant lot across the street was soon piled with the contents of the store. In the mean time the fire broke out in the rear of the building, and the hose stretched out, and at last several streams of water began playing on the rear part of the building.

IT appeared impossible that the place could be saved, but the steady deluge of water which was now poured on all possible points to sell, and the progress of the conflagration was eventually arrested. It will be seen that the fire broke out in the rear of the building and will have to be completely rebuilt, while water has injured the ceiling and other portions of the building.

THE goods have been injured by removal. Several piles of lumber in the vicinity of the oil house were piled on all possible points to sell, and five made no great headway in that direction. The loss to the building, and especially to the goods must be considerable, amounting probably to $5,000.

EVERYBODY was early to the front on Tuesday evening to enjoy the entertainment in aid of the building fund.

THE building fund was called to the front, and it is unnecessary to state, but filled his duties with entire satisfaction.

THE first place on the programme was an instrumental selection by Misses McLaughlin and Pringle, the young performers doing well, and a number of other contributions.

MR. BELLARD's reading "A Scene from Macbeth" followed and was well rendered. The audience was then favored with a song sung by Miss Booth, a solo, who sang very sweetly and possesses the rare virtue of a distinct enunciation. She was loudly encouraged by the audience.

MR. JOHN JACKSON's martial song was well received and loudly encored. After this the renowned Brown Brigade was ordered to the front, and under the severe inspection of Gen. Hoppes and the critical gaze of the audience, proceeded to go through a number of evolutions. It soon became evident that they had been drilling faithfully since the previous parade, as there was a marked improvement in the manner in which the various movements were executed.

THEY were followed by a song sung by Mr. McKee, which followed, took well, and a song in character by Mrs. Coleman and Miss Booth, who sang very sweetly and possesses the rare virtue of a distinct enunciation. She was loudly encouraged by the audience.

OH, TAKE A BATH!

The Roman bath is the only kind of a bath known that can cleanse the skin. Vapor is but tepid water on the body, and water will never amalgamate with grease.
Dry heat can both cleanse the skin and open up the seven million of pores contained in it. One hot-bath will do more good than a dozen vapor or water baths of any temperature, when the object is to relieve the pores, cleanse the skin, benefit the nerves, and purify the blood.

When the bath is the practice of the people there are no diseases of the skin. All cases of inflammation are subdued. Conditions, scabies, or skin cannot exist where it is conscientiously and sedulously employed as a curative means. As to constitution, that scourge of England, that pallid spectre that sits at every tenth of mankind amongst the highest orders, it is not only unknown where the bath is practised, but is curable by its means.—
D. C. CARTER, M.D., Pillars of Hercules.

The surface of our bodies is covered with scales like a fish, a single grain of sand would cover one hundred and fifty of these scales, and yet one scale covers five hundred of these scales. It is a curious fact illustrating the necessity of cleanliness, and of keeping the pores of the skin open, that if a coat of varnish or other substance impervious to moisture be applied to the exterior of the body, the scales will close in about six hours.
The experiment was once tried on a child at Florence. On the occasion of Pope Leo the Tenth's accession to the Papal chair, it was

TO SWIM OR FLOAT.

Though rather early in the season, the following poetic rules telling how to swim and float will be found both correct and amusing.

When you want to learn to swim,
Find water to your waste. Step in,
Spread forth your arms, with hands well cupped.

(Be easy now, and not abrupt)—
Shut your mouth, throw out your chest,
Then forward drop upon your breast,
Your hands sweep round into your thighs
The motion makes your body rise.
Your elbows bend, again strike out
With confidence and action true,
Your legs you'll move as young frogs do,
And onward swimming you will go!

HOW TO FLOAT.
When you want to learn to float,
Which must be done without a doubt,
(Unless too heavy by ill luck),
If they have knowledge with fair pluck,
First raise your arms erect, but slack,
And gently fall upon your back;
A fulcrum, very soon you'll find,
And so your balance you will gain.
If the feet sink beneath the line,
Lift out your hands till to the line
Of surface they again incline—
And so your balance you will gain.
Without exertion fear or pain.

THE IRON-CLAD MERSEY.

(London Letter.)
To a man in the crowd who looks at the launch the Mersey, as Mark Twain says of his frog, it has no points different from any other iron-clad. The person who knows her construction she is the most extraordinary craft ever set afloat. It is claimed the enemy could shoot away the upper decks, all the upper works, and then blow away the remainder of the hull till not a vestige of the ship we saw launch remained, yet after such heroic treatment the Mersey would not only remain afloat but it would actually steam away from the enemy, and if the weather were good reach port with her crew.

Imagine the consternation of a Russian crew who had successfully battered in all the upper works of such a cruiser and then let off a torpedo under the hull and found the outside hull so shell-sink and left about a new kind of steel boat, the like of which they had never seen, and fancy their feelings as they saw the rest of her quietly steam away, defiantly firing a stern-chaser at the Russians, like a man who slipped off his top coat and found he had a new kind of coat underneath.

CRICKET MATCH.

The cricketers of Deseronto held their first match on Monday, May 26th, at the practice of the season, by a friendly game with the Picton Club. It took place on the Wilson field and attracted quite a number of visitors. It resulted as was expected in a victory for the visiting team. The Picton men went first to the bat and rolled up a score of 116, of which 58 runs were made by Harrison, who splendidly maintained his reputation as a distinguished batsman. The Deseronto men followed, but the wickets fell fast before the bowlers had time to Wilcox, and when the last man went out the score had only reached 18. Going to the bat for the second innings they did much better making 30 runs, of which J.
McLeod gained 12, A. Leggett 8, and Mr.
Craig 7. The visitors were entertained by the local club at the O'Connor House. During their stay in town the Picton men made themselves popular by their friendly and gentlemanly deportment. Our boys under the circumstances did well, their opponents are a crack team. Cricket more than any other game requires practice, and it is obvious that in a place like Deseronto, where but few have leisure to devote to it, opportunity for steady practice. The members of the club intend, however, giving every spare hour to perfect themselves in the noblest of all games. We append the score—

STRONGER THAN LIFE.

It is the evening of Madame Cronheim's concert, which is indeed more of a concert, the performers taking among the audience when not actually required on the raised platform at the upper end of the room, where the grand piano and violin and violoncello are located, and a hum of talk filling up the intervals between the songs and concerted pieces. We all enjoy it, having many friends and acquaintances in the audience, and though most of Madame Cronheim's pupils take part in the choruses only, they are pleased to appear in public in any capacity and so cultivate a reputation can be called public at all.

My "Jewel" song is among the first on the programme; and, when I have sung it, and when Herr von Konig has complimented me on what he is pleased to call the delicate grace of my vocalism, and called my voice "truly celestial," I make my way down to the Rolleston from the bias of light which makes a dazzling centre of the stage. But, before I can reach them, moving away slowly through the dense crowd, with my long black satin skirt in one hand and my fan in the other, Gerard Baxter appears. I know not from what coin of vantage, and offers me his arm.

"Allow me to make way for you," he says, smiling, "and allow me to congratulate you on having 'brought down' the house."

"Oh don't you flatter me!" I laugh, shrugging my shoulders.

"Why do you emphasize the 'on'?"

"Because it seems unusual for you to pay compliments."

"I paid you a compliment once, and you misunderstood it," he says more gravely. "Perhaps I may find some safer road to your favor than that. Have you forgiven me yet for my singularity?"

"Long ago," I answer frankly. "Let us forget all about a piece of folly for which I am sorry, and of which I am heartily ashamed."

"I am ready to forget all you do not wish me to remember," he rejoins at once.

And then, instead of finding myself nearer to the Rollestons, I find myself sitting on a chair near the cool box of ferns and exotics with Mr. Baxter standing behind me, listening to a girl with a magnificent contralto voice singing the "Clang of the Wooden Shoe."

I listen like one in a dream. I know that he is there, standing near me in his sombre evening raiment, and that I am happy, with a strange unaccountable sense of happiness, which I could not analyse even if I would.

"Do you like her singing?" he asks, when the song is ended.

"She has a very pure contralto. Her voice is better than her method of singing. Don't you think so?"

"Yes. I have heard people say that she is studying for the stage, that she is going to Italy to finish her musical education."

"So I have heard. I think she is quite right. Such a voice as hers was never meant to 'rust unburnished, not to shine in use.'"

"Or yours?" he questions a little wistfully. "They tell me you are studying for public exhibition too."

Who could have told him so? The idea amuses me so much that I do not immediately advise him to the contrary.

"And if I am," I reply, laughing, "do you think that I am right in putting the talent which has been given to me to some practical use?"

"If you have no other means of livelihood—yes."

"You do not approve of singing on the stage?"

"I do not care to think of your doing it."

"But one can do it, and yet—"

"I hope you will never do it," he interrupts, with more passion than the occasion seems to warrant. "I hope to Heaven you will never do it!"

"But I must do it!" I say with fully conscious ideas which he somehow or other seems to have taken into his head. "If my daily bread depends upon it, what am I to do?"

"On't you teach, or something?" he says boyishly. "You could teach other girls, couldn't you?"

"But fancy teaching—fancy wearing oneself out with a troop of little girls, as Madame Cronheim does, when one might be doing a delightful audience behind the foot-lights, with one's arms full of bouquets!"

"That's just what I hate," he retorts savagely. "That is just what no girl—no woman or sister of mine—should ever degrade herself by doing! How do you think a man—who loved you for instance—would like to see other men level their opera glasses at you, and perhaps—indeed certainly—make comments on your personal appearance?"

"If they were complimentary, I don't suppose she would mind very much."

"But he would mind more for her brother or her husband, he would rather see her in her coffin than subject her to such degradation."

"How delightfully selfish!" I laugh, shrugging my shoulders.

"Oh, we are all very selfish!" Mr. Baxter allows; and then, the overture to Tannhauser commencing, we find it impossible to talk any more for the present.

I amuse myself by looking for my own particular friends in the crowd. Olive is in a corner sitting with Jack Rolleston. Fanny is sitting calmly beside her fiancé, looking as lazily handsome as ever. Katie Rolleston is looking at me. I wonder if she would like very much to change places with me, and if half at least of Olive's snubbing and her cold regard for Baxter is true? Perhaps Katie has lost her heart to this artist-friend of her brother's, though, according to Mrs. Wauchoppe, Mr. Baxter does not care for young ladies. I am puzzled over Katie's steadfast look, and wondering how it has happened that, among all our common friends, nobody has told Gerard Baxter and I, who know him so well, that he is a "Bond of the River" being next on the programme.

"You must press a great deal!" Mr. Baxter observes, as he fixes me his arm again.

"Yes," I answer, smiling, as I meet his friendly eyes. "I hope it does not annoy you."

"No," Mrs. Wauchoppe will tell you that I have never been so industrious as since you pressed me to do it."

"I am glad to hear it," I venture, somewhat soberly. "If I had your talent, I should certainly not let it lie idle."

"I prefer to work very hard, now," he says quickly. "Before, I did not care very much whether I made a name for myself or not. But now—I do!"

CHAPTER V.

"So he thinks I spend my time drumming on this unfortunate instrument with the ultimate object of earning my livelihood!" I laugh, sitting before the piano in the Westchester drawing room, after the manner of Madame Cronheim's soirée musicale. "He thinks I am a penniless art-student like himself, bound to earn my bread by whatever talent I possess. I like it, and how Olive will enjoy it! And how Aunt Rosa's stiff gray curls would bristle with horror if she knew that her niece, Miss Smeaton, who Woodway was taken for a poor young woman from the country who had come up to these cheap furnished lodgings for the purpose of studying vocal music for the stage!"

The idea is too delicious! I laugh to myself with such frantic enjoyment, that if Mary Anne had chanced to come into the room, she would have seen me down either as a idiot or as some harmless kind of lunatic. I shall not tell Mr. Baxter the mistake he has made—since no one has thought of telling him, before, I hope they will not tell him now. They must take it for granted that he knows who I am, and he must have thought no questions necessary, seeing for himself my mode of life. As for Mrs. Wauchoppe, she still labors under the delusion that her niece, who is in the drawing room, has never yet encountered each other here or anywhere else.

Mr. Baxter must think the Deane and Rollestons have been very kind in taking me up; but he knows them to be a fond of art and artistic people, especially the Rollestons, and likely enough to make much of me for the sake of my song. "What fun it is to think of myself as working for my living! What fun it will be to keep up the delusion with the help of my scampish friend Olive, who loves nothing so much as a practical joke!"

My fun is up a step to a very summary manner. While I am sitting here at the piano, a note from Olive is put into my hand to say that Ellnor has scurried fever, and that I am not to come out to the home. At the same time, she has had it, and are not afraid; but Mrs. Deane will not allow them to come near me—I must not expect even to see Olive at Madame Cronheim's to-day, as her mother is so ill that it would be dangerous to allow her to go there out of an infected house.

I am very sorry, not only for my own sake, but for Ellnor and all of them. I write a note to Olive, and have just made up my mind not to go out at all this morning, when Ada Rolleston comes running in with an urgent request that I will come over and spend the day in Berkeley Street, which I am rather unwilling to do, but which Ada persuades me to do in the end.

During the next five or six days I spend most of my time with the Rollestons. As I am so ill, and as I am very much, I am a pleasant one—there are always people coming and going—clever people, poets, painters, artists, literary men and women. We are never at a loss for amusement, between the preparations for the fancy-ball, Jack's amateur studio, and the great music room where their musical friends would willingly play symphonies and fantasies all day long, if they could find any one to listen to them.

I meet Mr. Baxter very often—in fact, I may say every day. I do not think he can be working very hard—indeed he paints by lamplight—he is always with Jack Rolleston, smoking in his study, or else he is out to the theatre. He even stays to dinner sometimes—though it because they insisted upon my dining there once or twice, and when I dine there, he dines there too. They like to see me about him—Deane who is "fagged" for me since we were children together. so happy, and yet I cannot say what has made me happy.

One day the Rollestons take me to the studio of an artist of whose pictures I have heard—a man who very often comes to Berkeley Street, and who, gentle and gay and cheerful, he is, is one of the "Boys of the Day." As we go up the stairs leading to the studio, we meet a girl coming down—a young girl, poorly dressed, but with a faint smile on her face. "The artist is absolutely dazed," she says. "I had never dreamed that a human face could be so lovely, and Mrs. Rolleston, who has also been struck by it, has made the same remark to the great painter himself."

"Oh that," he says, laying down his palette and brushes, "is a poor child who sits to me as a model—her name is White! Her mother is a wealthy woman, always begging—sometimes drunk. Here is her picture—yes it is a lovely face."

He has turned a canvas which has been standing with its face to the wall, and we are looking again at the girl we met in the stairs. There are the pure Greek features, which the artist has so wonderfully whittled—the angled red-gold hair tossed back from the white forehead, glittering like a halo round the angelic head, the dark blue velvety eyes, the exquisite smile. The artist is a wealthy woman, always begging—sometimes drunk. Here is her picture—yes it is a lovely face."

This evening the Rollestons insist upon sending their carriage to take me back to Berkeley Street to dinner. I should have spent a lovely evening if I had not gone, and yet I go rather unwillingly, having had a pile of letters from Woodway and Katie Rolleston, and a letter from which I have not yet had time to read. But the temptation to spend the evening in that pleasant house is too strong to resist—against my better judgment I allow myself to be persuaded to go. I find the artist in the drawing-room at Berkeley Street; and, as usual, I find Mr. Baxter there before me.

"I don't think you are working very hard," I say to him in the course of the evening.

"I think we have both been very busy," he retorts, with his boyish smile.

"I have been here every day—I have no time to practise."

"And I have been here every day—I have no time to paint."

"But how are you to make this great name for yourself if you do not work?"

"Oh, I am not in a great hurry to make a name for myself," he says, laughing.

"I am glad to hear it. I hope you will never make a name for yourself at all."

"Thank you."

"I mean that I hope you will never make that voice of yours public property."

"What then is to become of me?" I ask, with laudable gravity.

"I am not sure," he says, "but he says hurriedly, his boyish face flushing like a girl's. 'Give some man the chance of making a name for himself—for your sake!'"

I make my head gravely, looking out into the twilight. We are standing at an open window at the upper end of a long music room. All the rest of the party are clustered round the piano at the other end, and are listening to a young man of Cranford's playing Berlioz's Symphonie Fantastique. These are all in a warm glow of candle-light from the lights on the piano, but we, standing at this distant window, are illumined only by the low glimmer from a faint clear apple-green light against which the houses stand up picture-gaily dark and indistinct, and in which, just above the shadowy chimney-tops, the stars are twinkling.

"Miss Scott, do you think the man you marry will ever allow you to sing on the stage?"

"The voice starts me, low and quiet as the stars are spoken of."

"I look up at the tall dark figure, indistinct in the twilight; and suddenly this boy, with his beautiful eyes, his desperate poverty, his passionate pride, seems to take by the hand and lead me into some 'fairly-dreamed-for' of which I have never dreamed in all my life before."

"I do not think about it," I answer with a smile.

"Miss Scott will you marry me?"

"The question takes me so entirely by surprise that it conveys no meaning to my mind."

"Allie, will you marry me, and give me thought to work for you?"

I look up into the eager dark eyes of the lad who is so eager to work for me, but who cannot or will not work for himself.

"Forgive me," I say, holding out my hand; it looks very white and slim in the half light, and as I look myself in my hand, I am sure I have offered to him and to him to help me in the only way you could—"

"Kind!" he interrupts passionately, taking the hand I have offered to him and to him to press his warm young lips against it. "I am kind to you, Allie, if you call it kind to love you with all the strength of my heart."

"But you have only known me for so short a time," I say, drawing my hand away coldly. "You can know nothing of me."

"I know that I love you—I know that I have loved you since the very first evening I met you here. I believe I fell in love with you before I ever saw you, though Mrs. Wauchoppe thought she snipped away danger of that kind so cleverly in the bud; and she has a little—the old boyish laugh."

I think of the violet and am silent, looking at that great solitary star, at the houses standing up black against the gold-green sky. The faint fantastic music of the Berlioz floats in the air, and the piano listens to it eagerly, with the light full on full on their preoccupied faces; only two are alone together in love with you, and the light shadows against the faint clear address of the sky.

We should be poor, Allie; but, if we cared for each other, that would not matter. I would work for you, and you would work for me. I would work day and night to become famous for your sake—nothing would be too hard for me with such a hope as that."

"I would work for you, and you would work for me. I would work day and night to become famous for your sake—nothing would be too hard for me with such a hope as that."

The Russian Soldier.

The Russian soldier in the field is a man of many virtues. At home in peace, indeed, he has but one vice to speak of, and that is drunkenness when he can, and keep drunk as long as he can.

Drunk does not make him dangerous, but simply adds to his child-like amiability. He is not a coward, but he is not a fighter either. He is a good fellow, but he is not a hero. He is a man of many virtues, but he is not a saint.

The Tribune.

FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1885

THE CAPTURE of Riel has been followed by the unconditional surrender of Poundmaker. That noted chief with several of his council is now a prisoner in the camp of General Middleton. It is probable that the latter will be sent to the United States to be tried for his part in the rebellion. The capture of Poundmaker will also comply with the summons to come in and give him self up to the authorities. This carried out the rebellion in the Northwest may be said to be ended. The presence of a considerable body of troops will, however, be necessary for some time yet, in order to disarm the Indians and secure order in all parts of the territory.

SUCCESS has followed the action of the Imperial Government in the purchase of a few years ago of the telegraph system of the United Kingdom. Under the management of the postal department with which it was united it has, in striking contrast with our Canadian system, been worked in the interest of the people. The result has proved the wisdom of the authorities in securing its control. There has been an increase in rates and an increase of a commensurate amount of twenty words can now be sent to any part of the United Kingdom for 12 cents. In order to give additional accommodation to the public, government will also this year spend £500,000 in adding 20,000 mile of wire to the present system and in opening new offices. The Dominion Government might, with great advantage, follow the example of the Imperial authorities in the matter and purchase the present telegraphic system from the companies who now control it. A cheaper and efficient service would immediately follow. An extension of the parcel post department is also imperatively demanded. The trade of the country at present suffers greatly from the exorbitant rates imposed by those grasping monopolists, the express companies, from whose extortion the country has been looking in vain for relief to our legislators at Ottawa. These changes effected, the nationalization of the railways of Canada would not be much longer delayed.

ONE of the disagreeable facts in connection with the recent rebellion in the Northwest was the complete failure of the much vaunted Mounted Police in doing anything whatever to crush the rebellion. The detachment at Cut Knife Creek, did its duty nobly; Inspector Dickens and his little band also behaved well under trying circumstances, but the rest of the force seems to have attempted little and contented themselves with inglorious inactivity. Major Crozier was outmaneuvered at Duck Lake while Col. Irvine with two hundred of the force remained in barracks, almost within sound of the guns at Batoche. Much indignation exists throughout the country in consequence of this display of cowardice or incompetency. The cause is obvious. Successive governments have officered the force with a number of place seekers and favorites, such as the Reels, Irvines and others, instead of appointing capable and efficient men. The valiant deeds performed by the different corps of scouts chiefly raised in the west, show that scores of capable men could easily have been found to take the position of inspectors and superintendents. Now that an increase of the force has been decided on we trust to hear of a change of policy and the appointment of officers acquainted with the country and the manners of the half-breeds and Indians. When the history of the rebellion comes to be written, it will be found, that the arbitrary conduct of the officers of the Mounted Police played a considerable part in fanning the flames of insurrection in the breasts of Indians, half-breeds and the white settlers. Several of these half-breeds themselves would have made the best of officers. There can be no denying that if the Government had taken any pains to direct into proper channels or utilize the genius which devised the system of rifle-pits and other defenses of the rebels in the late campaign, the movement would have been crushed before it had gained much headway. In the reorganization of the Mounted Police let us hope that due attention may be paid to some of these considerations.

The British authorities in India have decided to give military commissions to a much greater number of native officers of that country. This is a continuation of the wise policy inaugurated by Lord Ripon, the late Governor-general, whose term of office was, on account of ill health, so unfortunately brought to a close. That nobleman was instrumental in filling vacancies in the judiciary and other branches of the civil service by native Indians to a greater degree than formerly. He also introduced a measure which made even Europeans amenable under certain conditions to native tribunals. To be sure this brought down on his head a storm of abuse from all the European officials in India. This, however, was to be expected as these arbitrary and selfish officials saw that their craft was likely to be endangered. It would never do, so they thought, to exercise power, to allow supremacy would crumble away if such an innovation were permitted. The claims of these officials, with whom British prestige is as-synous as with salary and emoluments, were it to be regretted only too strongly supported in Parliament, and the home government was obliged to yield to some extent to their clamor. In the recent crisis Indian loyalty was conspicuous. All classes and ranks were ready to resist the encroachments of Russia and offers of men and money came flowing in from all portions of the Queen's Indian empire. The government are wisely recognizing this display of patriotism by entrusting natives with the higher military commissions. In doing so England is also taking a leaf from Russia's book. The secret of the success of Russia in Central Asia and elsewhere lies in the fact that she has invariably selected as her agents men of talent irrespective of their nationality. Germans, Scotchmen, Armenians and Asiatics have all risen to fill the highest positions in that vast Empire. For example the Armenian, Melikoff, rose to a position next to that of the Czar. Generals Tergoukassoff and Lazareff, two Asiatics, commanded Russian troops in the late Turkish war. Col. Alikhanoff, also whose name is familiar to all by its connection with recent events, and who has probably done more than any other man to advance Russian interests in Central Asia, is an Asiatic. Alikhanoff is simply Ali Khan, with the Russian "off" added to it. His Asiatic cunning and tact virtually accomplished the annexation of the whole Turcoman country to Russia. There is reason to believe that the wise policy which commends important trusts to the Hindus and Mohammedan subjects of England, will be recompensed by increased loyalty and devotion to British rule.

DISTRICT.

Perth has a population of 3,774. Campbellford gave $432.25 to the volunteer relief fund. The Belleville Axe Factory has resumed operations. Rev. J. J. Christie has accepted the incumbency of Wolfe Island. Picton enjoyed a first-class sensation in the shape of a squaw-fight last week. The Orangemen of Campbellford will hold a grand celebration on the 12th of July. Mr. Theo. Way of Thurlow, recently sold a yoke of oxen which weighed 4,000 lbs. Brockville defeated Kingston at base ball on the Queen's birthday. Gilmore's fire company of Trenton, won the silver cup at the Firemen's parade at Cobourg.

LEX. V. P. DYER, M. A., has been appointed President of Albert College at Belleville. Thos. Buckley and Robert Spencer, two convicts of the Kingston Penitentiary, escaped from the guards one day last week. George Gerdis, of the township of Herschel, a young man of 22 years, accidentally shot himself while crossing a fence. Patrick Donnelly, of Harrowsmith, and formerly of Hay Bay, died recently at the advanced age of 90 years. Kingston volunteers shot a cow the other day on Barricaded common. The war is coming nearer home. The Gilmour Company have 160,000 logs stuck at the head of Black Creek, which, it is alleged, cannot be got out this season. It is stated that another provisional battalion will be formed in this military district, and that it will be dispatched to the Northwest to relieve the troops now on service.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Three young people were drowned in Toronto harbor on Monday by the upsetting of boats. The half breed commission have already satisfactory settled four hundred cases at Calgary. A small filibustering expedition landed at Cuba the other day was dispersed the same day by the troops. Riotous communistic demonstrations have occurred during the week in Paris, and many of the rioters were severely handled by the police. The Imperial House of Commons has adjourned till June 4th. Glanders, a deadly horse disease, is increasing in Montreal. The Apache Indians are on the war path in Arizona and have repulsed the troops who attacked them. The official records show that Riel took out final naturalization papers at Helena, Montana, on March 18th, 1883. The British Guards have received orders to remain in Egypt, and will go into quarters pending further orders. The Liberal candidate, Mr. St. Clair, was elected in the recent election in the County of Antrim, Ireland. British officers have arrived to assist in the fortification of Herat, Russian protests against the Amee's warlike policy. The rest of the Canadian voyageurs have arrived home. They all speak in the highest terms of their good treatment by the English Government. Victor Hugo, the famous French author, died last Friday. The funeral pageant conducted by the state was very grand and impressive. Hugh Keys, a teamster from Regina, who has been engaged in the transport service, died suddenly on Sunday at Saskatoon, having landed from heart disease. Riel says that but 154 of his force were at Fish Creek and that his loss was seven killed. At Batoche in the four days fighting there were 76 killed and 193 wounded. The residents around Prince Albert complain that Gen. Middleton did not deal more severely with the Indian chiefs in that locality. General Middleton has received congratulatory telegrams from Lord Lansdowne and Lord Wolseley in Egypt, upon his recent victory. Dr. A. S. Muir, made a great sensation in the Free Church Assembly in Edinburgh by the proclamation of Popish doctrines and the display of a crucifix in that body. A fire in Sullivan's printing establishment, at Cincinnati caused the death of nineteen persons and terrible injuries to many others.

Turkey will not occupy the Soudan on the British terms. It is said that the Mahdi desires to come to terms with the Khedive. A mob of several hundred men and boys last week wrecked a church in Sacramento where a Salvation Army meeting was being held and wounded a number of the members. The Artie ship Alert has started for Hudson Bay to relieve the officers of the meteorological department left at different points last winter. General Grant's house in Philadelphia was sold by auction on Tuesday for $22,500. The house was presented to Gen. Grant by the citizens immediately afterwards. Slouping barter has been committed by the Indians now on the war path in New Mexico and Arizona and large numbers of settlers have been killed. The weekly tournament horse horser took place this time at Jersey City, a three story building having collapsed four people being killed and others injured. Poundmaker and his whole band have surrendered to Gen. Middleton. Poundmaker and five of his chief men are held as prisoners, also two Indians who acknowledged themselves murderers of Payne and Fremont.

FLAG LOST.

AT ONE of the entertainments held in the Presbyterian School Room early in the winter, a valuable flag, a British red ensign, was taken away, probably by mistake. Any one having it in their possession will greatly oblige by leaving it at THE TRIBUNE office.

READ.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

This community was startled by the sudden death of Mrs. John D. Naphin, of Naphin 8th con., on the 18th inst. Mrs. Naphin was the daughter of the late Mr. Patrick O'Hare of the 5th con. The deceased lady was a most estimable and enjoyed the love and esteem of a large circle of relatives and friends, and leaves three young children to mourn her loss. Mr. Naphin has the warmest sympathy of this neighborhood in his sad affliction. Mrs. Naphin's funeral took place on the 19th inst. and was attended by people from all sections of the township.

On the 14th inst. the infant son of Mr. & Mrs. David Walsh, of Bachelor's Walk, died.

Joseph Meagher, second son of Mr. James Meagher, died very suddenly on the 18th inst. He had been ill with erysipelas for a few days and was supposed to be getting better, when suddenly on the morning of the 18th inst. his illness took a sudden turn. He was in his 6th year. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to Mr. & Mrs. Meagher in their sad trial.

Mr. Hough, who is so well and favorably known as an authority, has lately passed through on a visit to the farmers of this and western townships. He states that the fatality among bees is unprecedented—due to several causes, and that many tons of honey must ripen unharvested for the want of the busy little harvesters to gather it in. He states that there are not many 100 acre farms that do not produce half a ton of honey from all the forest bloom, the flowers and grasses. Mr. Hough lost seven colonies in this locality.

Mr. Denis Ryan, one of our most successful and best known beekeepers in this section wintered his bees fairly. His plan is to pack his bees well with forest leaves, and from practical experience, he pronounces it the best mode of wintering. He recently sold five hives of bees to Mr. Latty, of Thurlow for $35.

Mr. Hough's article that appeared in the Thurlow last week on "Honey and Bees," was greatly interested all the beekeepers whom I have met.

The Court of Revision for this township met at Melrose on Tuesday, when only seven cases of appeal were heard, which speaks well for the assessment made by our present assessors, Messrs. Tripp and Drummond.

The study of ornithology has been receiving much attention lately from the labors of one Michaelis Don Gerald of the 5th con., concerning which I will write at some future time.

The farmers have been rushing things during the last few weeks, and have got their spring work well on, although the season was so late. Several had their crops in early this week, and by the end of the week most of our farmers in this neighborhood will be finished.

We have had glorious weather for the last few days. Fine growing weather and no frost. Last Friday we had a beautiful rain causing everything to grow. The hay crop promises well this season. I regret to say in many places the fall grain is not as good as expected. However it may turn out better than many expect.

All our cheese factories are now doing a rushing business, although I am sorry to say that the price of cheese is only 7 cents with a prospect of going down, owing to the stock of old cheese in Europe.

Mr. Frank Brennan's new factory at Forest Mills is now in operation and receiving daily a large quantity of milk.

NAPANESE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The light showers which we have been favored lately have put quite a new face on nature. Every tree and shrub is in full leaf, and of those which bloom and bear fruit, many are in full bloom, vegetation has been so rapid one could almost feel the grass springing up beneath one's feet. Spring crops, notwithstanding the lateness of the season, are almost as far advanced as in any previous year, and what is more to the purpose are now past all fear of injury from frosts which generally accompany the earlier seasons. The most serious change is to be seen in the face of the farming man. He is an entirely different looking article from the individual who came into town a couple of three weeks ago. Then you would have thought every man of them was a Presbyterian elder and every day Sunday. Their sad, solemn tones painfully reminded you of "Old Hundred," and every movement seemed to be attuned to the same inspiring measure. But now the scene is changed. When men meet in the market place or on the street it is "Hello, old fellow, how are you?" "Purdy good, how's yerself?" "Bully—just the loveliest kind of weather ain't it?" "Hate to be a farmer, but I don't keef if I do," and they adjourn to the nearest bar, where they anticipate the profits of the season's crop, twenty cents worth. Then they separate only to meet another friend and indulge in a little more anticipation, and they anticipate so much, that everybody else anticipates a very bad day for them to-morrow.

Gough's lecture was very well attended and all who heard him appeared well pleased. "Peculiar People" was the subject. Everybody enjoys hearing their friends' peculiarities, little faults of temper and manner criticised; somehow or another, each one of us fails to behold a rocket in the night, placed before him. We see old Brown or young Arthur Fitz-dude, old Mrs. Platter, the gossip, or young Miss Angell, or Verre, but ourselves never, and I presume that is the reason why we all wended our way home from that lecture, happy and contented, our friends all glad to see us, and the lecturer never as much as hinted we were present.

Watson's entertainment on Saturday evening, in aid of the Northwest Soldier's Fund, did not receive the patronage which the worthiness of the object demanded, and the ladies merited. We do not see any reason in for patriotism unless it pays—or a post-office, or a collectorship, wants an occupant, then we can shout as lustily as the noisiest of them.

The Scott Act demonstration was largely attended and was an admitted success. Large delegations were present from the surrounding country. Stirring addresses were delivered, and all zealous temperance workers are much strengthened and encouraged.

The Queen's Birthday falling on Sunday, Monday was observed as a holiday by a number of our citizens. Quite a number of business places closed. Very few visitors in town, and the day passed off quietly.

On the 25th inst. the Streets Committee, headed by the Chief, made a tour of inspection of the streets. The result is considerable dissatisfaction among the members. Rumour says each member of that committee wanted the lion's share of the fund expended in the neighborhood of his own property—and as they cannot all be satisfied, the unfortunate few are prophesying that the lucky fellows will be licked out of their boots at the next election. I must not forget to mention that the trip was made pleasant in some respects by a display of fireworks by the chief.

A couple of jars on Water-street the other evening—on the west and the other on the east side of Centre St. They were domestic jars. Cause, conjugal infelicity and Moronism.

The Salvation Army divided their forces on Sunday evening—one detachment made an attack on Shepkin Plate, but with not much success, as the enemy were found to be hardened veterans.

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs; none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unseasonable exposure, is often at the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.
"In 1871, I lost a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night in the doctor's office. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL, a permanent cure was effected. I am now 67 years old, hale and hearty, and am indebted to your CHERRY PECTORAL for my life."
HOBART FATHBROTHER, Rochingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup—A Mother's Tribute.
"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup. It seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. A single dose, which relieved his lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL, a permanent cure was effected. I am now 67 years old, hale and hearty, and am indebted to your CHERRY PECTORAL for my life."

Fire! Fire!

AT THE BIG STORE.

It is necessary in consequence of the damage to a large quantity of our Stock by removal that they should be sold at once; in order to do this we have decided to sell them at prices that will insure a speedy sale.

The Stock consists of Dress Goods, Felt and Straw Hats, Fancy Goods, etc., etc.

We will commence selling the above goods at once and continue the sale until all the damaged goods are disposed of.

The damage to the goods is by Smoke and Water and in their removal from the Store—not any have been burned.

As the goods will be sold at a sacrifice we have decided to make the terms CASH, GOOD APPROVED NOTES, or will take produce in exchange.

All goods must be settled for before leaving the Store as we will be too busy to let goods out on approbation.

We gave unparalleled bargains after the fire last summer and will repeat it now.

CALL EARLY, YOU MAY LOSE MUCH BY DELAYING.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

GOSTING are ripe.

Shut up your lips.

SPADES are trumps.

Fruit trees in bloom.

HAMMOCKS are again in use.

Is there a soda water fountain in town? The Quinto has changed her time. She leaves Deseronto for Belleville at 7:30 a.m. See advt.

The County Council will meet for the June session on next Tuesday. The trees on many of the streets present a refreshingly green appearance.

LARKIN is the name of a new post-office in this county.

LAROS shipments of railway ties are daily made to Clayton and other New York ports. The Grand Orange Lodge of British America will meet at Cornwall on Tuesday, June 2nd.

SAUER BROS. have put up a handsome awning at their flourishing establishment adjoining THE TRIBUNE office.

The Bay of Quinte conference of the Methodist Church will open at Port Hope, on Thursday, June 4th.

The Rathbun Company have established a lumber agency on Wolfe Island and appointed Mr. Thomas Hogan as agent.

The water in the bay is quite chilly yet, but still not cold enough to prevent the small boy from going in for a swim.

There was a considerable display of bunting on Monday, showing that the fire of patriotism is not yet altogether extinct. SMALL boys row the docks in every conceivable attitude and with fishing rods held at all angles, waiting patiently for a bite.

VOTING on the Scott Act petition will take place in the County of Hastings on the 2nd day of July. G. H. Boulter, of Stirling, is the returning officer.

Odd Fellows, Pic-Nic, on 1st of July.

There were quite a number of Pic-Nic visitors in town on the Queen's birthday, who enjoyed themselves by visiting the Big Mill and other places of interest.

A SEWER has been excavated on the west side of Centre Street between Thomas and Dundas, which will improve the drainage in that part of the town.

MR. JAMES CAMERON'S little boy in addition to having his ankle dislocated had the bone fractured. The little sufferer progresses favorably.

THE FINE PLAY "Lady of Lyons" will be brought on the boards at Cameron's Opera house in a few weeks. The company has been formed embracing all the best local talent.

COMMISSIONER STEWART, of the Board of Works Department, has laid down a crossing over Mill-street and continued the boardwalk west on Thomas-street through the newly opened avenue.

MR. R. PEARSON'S little child, about two years of age, had a narrow escape from death the other day, having swallowed a quantity of spirits. The bottle was a bottle which had come within its reach.

TWO young men not a thousand miles away from the Central Offices have during the past few days been putting up with a great deal of trouble. The trouble is a great deal of trouble. When repaired the will be used as an excursion boat, her spacious decks making her especially well adapted for such a purpose.

THE FRUITING on orchards the young trees should be slightly inclined towards the direction of the prevailing winds. The trees in all old orchards lean as they were bent by the prevailing wind, and in new orchards were set when there were more forest, and winds were much less violent than now. More care should be taken now that young orchards are surrounded of natural wind-breaks.

THERE is much stir in aquatic circles, boating men practising diligently both night and day. An event which will attract a vast crowd of spectators will take place on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. At that hour Messrs. John Hoppes and T. Roach, Jr. who have been in training for some time, will have a friendly contest over a two miles course for the championship of the village of Deseronto. An exciting race may be expected.

SOME parties with fiendish maliciousness entered the outhouses of the public school between Friday evening and Monday morning and with an axe or other instrument smashed the new urinals and otherwise injured the property. The School Board ordered a reward of five dollars for any information that will lead to the apprehension of the guilty parties. Hereafter all persons found trespassing on school grounds will be prosecuted according to law.

THE following is an instance of what some of the cowardly big boys of the village can accomplish in the way of brutal conduct. A gentleman informs us that some three or four boys by threats and cruel treatment drove his little boy and two or three other children into the cold waters of the bay until up to their middle. They returned home with their clothing all dripping, protesting that they were frozen.

A sorry plight. A good application of the law would effectually check such ruffianism.

THERE has been a little stir in police circles during the past week. The result, of Hay Bay, was arrested and placed in the lock-up for cruelty to one of Mr. Thomas Gault's horses while in Nanapan and returning from that place. He was let off with a caution on promising to pay the amount due Mr. Gault. On Friday, May 22nd, the same man, George C. Hennessey, was having struck his little girl. This being denied, Luffman knocked Hennessey down and held him several times. He was arrested by the Chief Constable and brought before the Court and Justice McGaughey, who inflicted a fine of $4.00 with $2.00 more for costs.

THE Band realised the handsome sum of fifty dollars for their excursion last Tuesday evening.

MR. EVANS proceeds immediately to build the new ferry-boat for the Measea (Belleville), of Belleville.

BOTH excursions were vastly enjoyed by THE TRIBUNE staff, who desire to thank the committees for many courtesies in railway cars and a most sitting has been laid down at the east end station opposite the Flour Mill.

MR. R. A. YOUNG, has been building a barn for Mr. Stafford and now proceeds to erect another for Mr. Madole, of Richmond, and all ready for the summer's work.

CAPT. MURPHY has got his handsome launch all ready for the summer's work. The dredge and scow will be launched in the course of a few days.

LARGE quantities of stuff continue to be drawn to the east end where the work of reclaiming territory from the bay still continues. Vast piles of cedar and other lumber are stored in that vicinity.

MR. Truman Oliver, while going aboard the Quinto for Belleville on Tuesday morning tripped at the end of the gangway and into the bay getting a cold bath and losing also some tools he was carrying in his hand.

THE first two logs from the Nanapan River is expected early next week. The dredging operations of the Rathbun Company under the direction of Messrs Butler and Callaghan are progressing steadily and satisfactorily.

IT is a pity that there should have been any friction in different parts of the boardwalk. They must be pretty large as they are said to be about the size of a Nanapan girl's foot. The baby and all having disappeared some of these days.

COMPLAINTS are heard concerning a number of holes in different parts of the boardwalk. They must be pretty large as they are said to be about the size of a Nanapan girl's foot. The baby and all having disappeared some of these days.

THE hum of the lawn mower and "humble" bee is heard in the land.

FLOWER terraces, on Dundas street, is now presenting a pretty appearance.

As will be seen by his advertisement, Mr. A. R. Richardson is now ready to give unparalleled bargains at the Big Store.

MR. MURPHY DEANS has again taken charge of the management of the wire rope conveyor at the Big Mill.

SERVICES in Christ Church, (Lower Mohawk) on Trinity Sunday, May 31st, at 11 a.m. Official Collection for the Deseronto Mission Fund. Evening Service at 7 p.m. at Indian Mission School House. The Mohawk singing at Christ Church last night was highly attractive and bids fair to improve yet more.

MR. MATHIE BUTTICK well and favorably known in this new city, is now at St. Thomas Church, Belleville, will it be said officiate in Christ Church (Lower Mohawk), Tuesday, Sunday, June 7th, in the absence of Rev. Dean Baker who will take Ven. Archdeacon Jones' duty at Nanapan, to assist in his attending the general obligation in Kingston Colliery on Saturday.

IT will be remembered that about the time the burglars were paying such anxious attention to Deseronto and vicinity, the shops of Messrs. Van Mellow and Arthur Carter were entered and a number of tools carried off. These included saws, cold chisels, and other tools, which were used by the burglars to enter the premises and steal the tools.

THEY were all more or less rusty, but were identified by the owners as the lost property. It is supposed that the burglars, who about that time had gloried the residence of Mr. H. B. Rathbun, had stolen these articles, and placed them under the platform just west of the Big Store when he discovered the lost tools, which had been recovered by the owners.

Rathbun, had stolen these articles, and placed them under the platform just west of the Big Store when he discovered the lost tools, which had been recovered by the owners.

THEY were all more or less rusty, but were identified by the owners as the lost property. It is supposed that the burglars, who about that time had gloried the residence of Mr. H. B. Rathbun, had stolen these articles, and placed them under the platform just west of the Big Store when he discovered the lost tools, which had been recovered by the owners.

SUBSCRIBERS still continue their good work of calling at THE TRIBUNE office to settle up their little account. Nothing so cheers the poor printer as visits of this encouraging character.

SHORTLY after the steamer "Hero" had left Bath on Monday night, on her return from the Thousand Islands, to which she had carried an excursion party to Belleville, a man named James Weatherall, of Belleville, fell overboard. Mr. Weatherall was a native of Ireland and was about thirty years of age and had no friends in Canada.

MR. RICHARDSON, Manager of the Big Store, aided by his zealous staff, has been working hard to get things again into order at the Big Store. Most of the goods undamaged by the recent fire have again been placed in the store, and business is again resumed.

AN extension 20'30" feet is being added to the rear of the building thus affording more space for the growing department. Mr. Knowles feels confident now that with this additional room he can meet any rush of customers as he was rather cramped before the fire in the north wing of the building.

MR. SCOTT'S face is again assuming a cheerful appearance as he is getting his boots and shoes made up. Mr. Weatherall, who was Green and Widdington on the other side are prepared to give unexampled bargains in their department. Mr. Wm. Stoddard has been working hard to get things again into order at the Big Store. Most of the goods undamaged by the recent fire have again been placed in the store, and business is again resumed.
